THE HISTORY OF CIVILIZATION

By JULIAN LAUGHLIN

IS a book of facts that often seem stranger than fiction, because of its originality in matter and in treatment. The history of ideas is so far reaching in its consequence that if correctly or even approximately set out, no other work can compare with this in importance. The book is the result of a vast research; along new and original lines; and is illustrated with over 500 pictures.

Part 1 gives a history of life, tracing from the atom, through inorganic molecules, and organic development, up to vegetable and animal life, and to man. Darwin made no attempt to connect man and the monkey historically. This book fixes the Euphrates Valley as the spot where, by use of implements, four tribes of monkeys developed into four primitive races of men. One by invention, three by imitation. After the invention of the bow, this first, prehistoric, civilization was destroyed by the brown, and the other races dispersed. The migrations of the races are shown by colored maps. A second and greater civilization sprang up, afterwards, among a white people, living in the Nile Valley, and was destroyed by the brown Hyksos. The third civilization begun in modern Germany; and with the rise of Japan will soon be facing the same brown peril. It classifies man into four, antagonistic races, with four languages, and four colors: white 350 million, brown and brown mixed 825, yellow 300, and pure black 25 millions. The white race is the inventive race. The brown race is the great, conquering race—having no warlike equal. It controls the entire yellow race; has reduced the black to a remnant; and had nearly exterminated the white when gunpowder was invented. For 400 years the white man with a gun has whipped the brown man with bow and arrow. The modern superiority of the whites is not due to religion, or valor, or superior intelligence, even; but to modern inventions. The missionary and the trader are now betraying the warlike secrets of the white man to his most deadly enemies. Instead of confining the lower races to the bow and arrow, the white nations are courting destruction by educating them.

Part 2 gives a history of ideas. It finds ancient civilization the result of certain useful inventions and discoveries—such as fire, writing, wheel, loom, plow, sail, bronze, iron, etc.—just as our modern civilization is due to printing, gunpowder, steam-engine, electrical devices, etc. These ancient inventions were all patiently traced back to a white people who lived in Egypt before the Hyksos invasion, 2100 B.C. The Kemian, Osiris begun this second civilization about 5000 B.C. on the Island of Phylæ, in Egypt, by discovering the use of fire. This the greatest of all discoveries raised, first his own, then neighboring people from the Primitive to the Savage state. The word God (Teutonic Got) means champion; in the Latin, Divus, and the Sanscrit, Devata, a shining one, is used; in the Semitic, the Gods were the strong ones. They were simply the ancient inventors, who learned to control the forces of nature and gave to man the beneficial use of power. Our entire civilization is dependent on the use of fire, which is not natural but artificial. In every religious system Osiris was regarded as the Supreme God, because his idea was considered the supreme idea. He was the Latin, Jupiter (Heavenly Father); Greek, Zeus, Aryan, Dyaus; Teutonic, Woden, whose title was Got or God. He is the Chinese, Tien (The Heavenly Father); Turkish, Alah and Jewish, Eloah. The Kemian, On invented the gig; and was the first fisherman. He was the Semitic, Dagon (dag—a fish); Greek, Posidon; and Latin, Neptune, God of the Sea. Anubis invented the first musical instrument, the Lyre, and his title, Musæus, means musician in many languages. He invented bronze, and was the first Smith (Hebrew Cain). Kem, as domesticator of the goat was called Pan; of the grape, Bacchus; of the honey-bee Chris Crinkle and Santa Claus. Hather invented the loom, plow, mill, trumpet, tamborine and many other things. Most of the goddesses are repetitions of her various titles. Horus discovered iron, and was the great iron-Smith (Hebrew-Tubal-Cain; Latin, Vulcan). Thoth invented picture-writing and the sun-dial, which, as the time-god Ra, became one of the Universal Gods (Semitic, El; Hindoo, Brahma; Greek, Chronos; Latin, Saturn; Norse, Alfadur, and English, Old Father Time.) Isis (Juno) invented the sail. Khnum (Hercules) domesticated the horse. While exploring the earth he came to America (Atlantis) about 2500 B.C., and left a colony of white Kemians in Yucatan, whose descendants spread from Chili to Lake Superior, but were afterwards exterminated by the American Indian. All the "Universal Gods," both ancient and modern, can be reduced to eleven. These ideas were exported from Egypt. They spread along the old trade-routes, moving at the rate of about two miles to the year, and are moving now.

The myths and miracles, fables and philosophies are of parasitic origin. They grew out of persistent abuses of the taxing-power, and were invented to mislead and deceive the religious contributor and legal taxpayer. They were often expressed in poetry and sung by ancient Bards. These ancient ideas, both good and bad, still control the world, though the people who originated them are almost entirely forgotten.

AMERICAN WOODS A publication on the trees of North America, north of the Mexican boundary, illustrated by actual specimens of their woods showing three distinct views of the grain of each. The specimens are sufficiently thin to allow the transmission of light, whereby characteristic structures, tints, etc., are revealed in a most satisfactory manner. An accompanying text gives full information as to botanical characters, distribution, physical and medicinal properties, uses, etc., of each species. The work is issued in parts, each covering twenty-five species, and handsomely bound. Price, in cloth binding, $5 per part; in half morocco, $7.50.

HANDBOOK OF THE TREES OF THE NORTHERN STATES AND CANADA Photo-descriptive of the leaves, fruits, winter twigs and typical barks of each species and magnified wood structures of the principal species, with maps indicating distributions and full text. One unfamiliar with botany can identify the trees by comparison with its illustrations. Its value is in its completeness. The work represents several years of field-work with camera, study and experiment, which nothing but the author's love of the subject and peculiar vocation would enable him to prosecute with such care, and publish results in such a neat volume at the price at which it is offered. Price in buckram binding, $8; in half morocco, $10.

LEAF KEY TO THE TREES A compact pocket guide, based mainly upon leaves, 4½ x 6 in. in size of page and with photographic picture in colors of an attractive isolated White Elm tree, in summer and in winter, as frontispiece. Price 75 cents, postpaid

DISEASES OF THE DOG AND THEIR TREATMENT

By Dr. GEORG MULLER, Professor, Director of the Clinic for Small Animals at the Veterinary High School at Dresden, and ALEXANDER GLASS, A.M., V.S. (McGill), for twenty-four years (1885-1908) Lecturer on Canine Pathology in the University of Pennsylvania.

This work is the only serious one on the subject. The authors, equipped by long years of clinical practice and experience in Europe and America, have produced what has become the recognized work on the subject. The leading colleges in every English-speaking country have instantly recognized its value as a text-book and adopted it, and it has received the approval of the leading veterinarians and veterinarian journals. Every detail in the diseases of the dog is carefully considered, and the whole so admirably arranged that the student and layman can readily find and study any subject in a clear, condensed form. This new edition has been carefully revised and enlarged throughout, but in particular the chapters on Rabies and Tuberculosis have been entirely rewritten in view of the results of the investigations in these subjects during the past ten years.

New illustrations and plates, in colors, increase the value of the work. Descriptive circulars sent on receipt of request. Large octavo, 420 pages, art canvas, $5.00.

Strongly recommended by the Berlitz School of Languages.

MERCANTILE SPELLER

Containing the correct way of spelling words and their tenses, plurals, etc.

This, the only complete Thesaurus of the Anglo-Saxon tongue, forms a perfect companion for the busy correspondent. Many know perfectly what they wish to say, and how to say it, who are yet dubious on the correct orthography of the words they use, particularly in reference to the plurals, tenses, etc.; to these persons the present work is invaluable. No clerk is equipped for a position without one of them, and it is indispensable to all in the professions.

It contains more words in actual use than any dictionary, arranged in the most convenient form. There is an appendix containing unusual words with different meanings and spellings, so that the proper one can instantly be selected. The list is very full, in the expressions of the arts and sciences, comprising many thousand technical, industrial and scientific terms which have lately enriched our vocabulary.

Descriptive circulars sent on receipt of request. Octavo, 470 pp., bound in black cloth, red edges, $2.50

CRUISES MAINLY IN THE BAY OF THE CHESAPEAKE

By ROBERT BARRIE and GEORGE BARRIE, JR.

"Readers will remember those interesting logs, not only for their value as records of cruises, but also for the many items of gossip and history concerning the wonderful coastline passed. They give delightful thumbnail sketches of those American people one seldom hears about, but which constitute a very strong factor in the country and its social life."—The Yachting Monthly, London.

"Written by two men who clearly know how to get the most of marine life along shore. They set forth their adventures in an easy unpretentious style that brings readers close to the scenes described."—Boston Evening Transcript.

Octavo, 276 pp., with 96 Illustrations and Chart, $2.

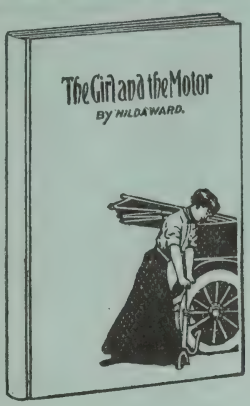
ON

Gas and Gasoline Engines, Gas Producers, Automobiles and Motor Boats.

The Girl and The Motor

By Hilda Ward.



There is the smell of the sea breezes of Long Island and while no plot is involved, there are constantly recurring incidents of humor and an occasional situation of pathos.

The book will interest every one who likes to read about a real, live girl who takes care of her own 14 foot boat and 20 H. P. car and resents the interference of those who think they know more than she—even though they belong to the masculine gender.

Handsomely illustrated and bound. Graces equally the parlor table or the tool box of motor boat or automobile. The lessons to be applied are so gently taught and so unconsciously absorbed that even those who do not love the smell of gasoline will enjoy reading the story. An attractive gift book. 120 pp. 12mo. cloth, illustrated, price postpaid.. .....$1.00

LITTLE LETTERS TO BOYS GROWN TALL; or, The Secret of Succeeding.

By "UNCLE NED," an active member of one of the largest clubs in Chicago, and also a life member of the Chicago Art Institute. The first edition of the "Little Letters" was exhausted in several weeks.

Boston Arena: "It is not dull, prosy sermonizing, but bright, sparkling, forceful letter-writing, just the kind that ought to captivate, instruct and inspire the boys to whom it is addressed."

Hartford (Conn.) Times: "It is a book of good advice for young men, given by a writer of tact and agreeable and forceful address. A wide variety of subjects is treated sensibly and intelligently."

Rochester Chronicle: "The Letters are practical, attractive, sympathetic, and full of sound sense."

Buffalo Courier (N. Y.): "A book which fathers should place in the hands of their sons, for it is a sure guide to the safe road which all parents wish their children to travel."

Louisville Evening Post: "From the time a boy is old enough for college, until he's out in the world of men, he is sure to need such a book as this."

Galveston News: "It is an attractive presentation of practical matter, and gives experiences of a man who knows much of life and business. The letters are to the point, direct and impressive."

Literary critics, professional workers and parents highly commend the book as being "splendidly thought out," "splendidly written," "good all the way through."

A NEW JUVENILE

Art Talks with Young Folks

By SOPHIE M. COLLMANN

Mothers and teachers will welcome these art stories as a delightful addition to their story telling fund, and boys and girls between the ages of nine and fifteen will enjoy them as much as any tale of the imagination.

From Public Libraries

This collection of eight talks is the most delightful contribution to children's stories that can be imagined. They were used first for "the story hour," and the author, who is head of the art department of the Cincinnati public library, has rendered a real service by putting them in print, where they may be accessible to others. Free from "dates and dry facts," an appeal is made to the imagination in a spirit of love for the material treated, and an intelligent appreciation of the mind of a child. The illustrations are copies of great things artistically.

About 130 pages, square 8vo, binding cloth, gold stamped title, plate paper, full page and text, illustrations of noted pictures of each artist. Price $1.50.

A Common-Sense View of Christian Science. Price 25 cts. 64 pages.

"As a Priest and missionary Father Krull finds it necessary to warn Catholics against any dealing with the thing which is called Christian Science, because in its meaning and purpose it is an insult to God Not content with so denouncing the fraud, he proves his verdict on it by taking up seriatim its principal substantive propositions and demolishing each by the force of a simple logic. This appeals to the sober sense of every one who is able to recognize the truth of the statement that chalk is not cheese, or that two and two do not amount to five, etc."—The Catholic Standard and Times, Philadelphia.

Spices and How to Know Them

stands alone as the only book published on this subject.

It is a romantic but true story, being both interesting and instructive.

It is the best fixture a merchant can put in his store, as it teaches him what spices to buy and how to sell them to bring him trade.

It secures the consumer against goods which are spice in name only and assures him of obtaining his money's worth.

For domestic science work it is indispensable, and in fact a copy should be in every public library and household of all English speaking people.

179 pages, 14 colored plates, 49 microscopic slides and 40 authentic pictures of countries where the spices grow. Full cloth binding, stamped in gold leaf. Price, $3.50.

"A SERIOUS QUESTION: WHAT IS TRUE REPENTANCE?" By R. B. KINSEY. Cloth-bound, 215 pp., 6¾ x 5½, $1 postpaid.

The purpose of this book is to show that the Church has seriously misinterpreted the word Repentance, attaching to it the element of sorrow, whereas the Greek definition, in which language the New Testament was written, is simply "a turning about or change of mind." This misinterpretation has led to a serious belittling of the atonement, as though a supplemental work on the part of man were necessary to make it effectual, which is not the case. Christ having atoned for the sins of the world, forgiveness of course passed to the entire race through that atonement, although forgiveness saves no one, but it did break down the "middle wall of partition" that separated between God and man, so that when man should wish to "get right with God" he should find no impediment other than his own will. Therefore all penitential exercises for sin's forgiveness are in contravention of the atonement and are to be eliminated, leaving the ministry free to simply prevail upon the world to be reconciled to God in the acceptance of Christ, as God was to them "by the death of his Son." But read the book.

The Analysis of Beauty

By WILLIAM HOGARTH

A REPRINT, including the plates formerly in portfolio, arranged in convenient form. Few books of this character, first issued 150 years ago, contain enough of interest and instruction for the modern reader and art student to warrant a reprint. Hogarth's rare book is an exception. It is still an authority frequently referred to and quoted by teachers and writers on art, and is the basis of many systems of instruction. This reprint has been highly commended for its convenient form and general make up.

SIMMIE'S Antony and Hero and Short Stories

I was ever known for and proud of my strength,
And age made that youthful pride a serious
Ambition until I became an athlete.
A man's life is modeled out in youth
By an unseen power, and as he dies
So was it destined.

A book of verses by a new author, who shows some inspiration but a not too sure grasp on the techniques of poetry.—The Book News Monthly.

A Circuit Rider's Wif

By CORRA HARRIS

IN this book the wife of an itinerant Methodist preacher tells the st of his life and hers for thirty years on a southern circuit among crude people intensely in earnest about the salvation of their souls. last her husband breaks down. After his death the wife visits a rich sister New York, but the glitter and shallowness of fashionable city life do not app to her. She says: "Up here the best, the wisest people do not know what truth of God is. They think they can find it in science. They are not try to reconcile God to man, but man to God. I do not wonder that so many m and women go wrong in New York."

A book unlike any other. Sensational, but sane.

Cloth, Illustrated, . . . $1.50

POTASH & PERLMUTTER

Their Copartnership Ventures and Adventur

By MONTAGUE GLASS

EVERYBODY in the cloak and suit business knows about Potash Perlmutter. For that matter, business men all over the country interested in these two partners; admiring their cleverness, laughing their experiences and profiting by the example of their business shrewdn Potash & Perlmutter show that success in the cloak and suit business may be w by superior goods, hard work and a good eye for the main chance.

The sayings of Abe Potash are becoming business maxims. "Any feller c make up an article, Mawruss, but it takes a feller with judgment to sell it."

"Some salesmen turn in a expense account like they was on a honeymo every trip."

"Vacant lots ain't no real estate. Vacant lots is just imitation real esta You can not say you got it real estate when you got vacant lots, no more as feller who buys a gold setting could say, he's got it a diamond ring."

Read the business adventures of Potash & Perlmutter. You will laugh at t humor of the dialogue, you will marvel at the human nature that is laid bare, a beyond this, you will learn a great deal about the ins and outs of trading.

Altemus' Automobile Girls Series

There is no room for doubt that these are the most interesting stories ever penned for girls. There isn't a dull page in one of these books. Nor is there a line that is in the slightest degree unwholesome. The stories are written of sane, fun-loving daughters of cultivated families. No girl's library—no family book-case can be considered at all complete unless it contains these sparkling twentieth-century books, written for present-day girls.

..2 The Automobile Girls in the Berkshires; or, The Ghost of Lost Man's Trail.

THE AMERICAN ACADEMY OF POLITICAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCE.

The American Academy of Political and Social Science was formed in Philadelphia, December 14, 1889, for the purpose of promoting the study of political and social problems of the present day.

Besides the general fields of sociology, political science and economics, a special effort is made to collect and publish material dealing with the more important practical questions of the time, such as taxation, banking and finance, colonial policy, municipal government, public administration, education, charities and correction, national and international commerce, corporations, and the various phases of the labor problem.

In all of these departments of investigation it is the aim of the Academy not to espouse the view of a single school, but rather to offer the materials upon the basis of which an intelligent opinion may be formed.

Applicants for membership in the Academy should file their names with the Secretary, Dr. Carl Kelsey, Logan Hall, University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Pa. The only financial obligation involved is the payment of the annual membership fee of five dollars, or life membership fee of one hundred dollars. Members are entitled to receive the regular publications of the Academy, submit papers and communications, and to attend and take part in all scientific meetings. Life members are exempt from all annual fees.

Papers and communications which the writers wish to submit to the Academy with a view of their being read in a Scientific Session or published in "The Annals," as well as applications for membership, should be sent to the following address:

NOTICE TO PURCHASERS

Orders. Each order should be clearly written and signed by the purchaser. It should give the post-office, county, and State, and also indicate whether the goods are to be sent by mail, express, or freight; and, where the name of the railroad or express station differs from that of the post-office, it should be stated.

Exact Titles. All orders should give the exact titles of the books as printed in our price lists; otherwise, we can not be held responsible for errors in shipping. In ordering by telegraph, purchasers should use the code words given in this Price List.

Order Early. Orders are usually filled on the day on which they are received, but just before the opening of schools this is not always possible. To insure prompt delivery due allowance should be made for unavoidable detentions and orders should be sent early.

Special. We supply only our own publications. Where any of our printed books are not readily obtainable through the trade, they will be sent by us postpaid on receipt of the list prices. Books sent as ordered are not returnable. Orders for first introduction must give the names of the books to be displaced as well as those to be introduced. Keys and Translations will be supplied to teachers only.

Remittances. Each order should be accompanied by a remittance, unless the purchaser has an open account. Remittances by draft are preferred, but post-office money orders or express money orders may be used, if more convenient. Purchasers who wish to open an account should apply for terms and give references showing financial ability, promptness, and general responsibility.

WEBSTER'S SCHOOL DICTIONARIES

REVISED EDITIONS

WEBSTER'S PRIMARY SCHOOL DICTIONARY

Cloth, 12mo, 336 pages. Containing over 20,000 words and meanings, with over 400 illustrations. 48 cents.

The proper pronunciation of words in the Primary Dictionary is indicated by respelling with phonetic markings. The vocabulary is limited almost entirely to English words, all words not important to the class for which the book is intended, and special lists and phrases, being omitted.

WEBSTER'S COMMON SCHOOL DICTIONARY

Cloth, 12mo, 432 pages. Containing over 25,000 words and meanings, with over 500 illustrations. 72 cents

The pronunciation of every word is shown by respelling with phonetic markings, and the pronunciation of unaccented syllables is accurately indicated. Condensation has been accomplished by omitting definitions of derived words, mostly adverbs, adjectives, and abstract nouns, which are self-explaining.

WEBSTER'S HIGH SCHOOL DICTIONARY

Cloth, 12mo, 560 pages. Containing about 37,000 words and definitions, with over 800 illustrations. 98 cents

This dictionary gives the correct orthography, pronunciation, and definition of all words with which pupils of the high school grade are likely to meet. It also includes a guide to pronunciation; a table of prefixes and suffixes; rules for spelling certain classes of words; and a pronouncing vocabulary of biblical, classical, mythological, historical, and geographical proper names.

WEBSTER'S ACADEMIC DICTIONARY

Cloth, 12mo, 736 pages. Containing about 60,000 words and definitions, with over 800 illustrations. $1.50. Indexed, $1.80

The same. Half calf, $2.75. Indexed, $3.00

This book is abridged directly from the International Dictionary. The definitions are clear, there are many synonyms, and the etymologies are in accordance with the latest scholarship. There are also given a guide to pronunciation; a list of prefixes and suffixes; rules for spelling; a pronouncing vocabulary of biblical, classical, mythological, historical, and geographical proper names; and much other useful information.

WEBSTER'S DICTIONARIES

REVISED SCHOOL EDITIONS

WEBSTER'S DICTIONARIES are the acknowledged authority throughout the English-speaking world. They are more widely used in the home, the office, and the schoolroom than all others combined. They constitute a complete and progressive series, carefully graded, and adapted for all classes. The spelling and punctuation in all leading schoolbooks are based on these Dictionaries, which are, therefore, a necessity to the teacher.

There have been issued cheap photographic reprints of the old editions of Webster's Dictionaries, and other cheaply made up books unwarrantably using the name Webster to give them standing. These reprints are of editions over fifty years old, and are not only badly printed, but do not contain the words in common use to-day.

The genuine revised Webster's School Dictionaries are distinguished by the circular trade mark which appears on the cover of each, and by the name of the American Book Company on the title page.

Educational Problems

By G. STANLEY HALL, Ph.D., LL.D.

These volumes contain the ripened results of twenty-five years of teaching education as an academic subject. The matter treated is brought up to date, and comprises not only the chief topics of present interest in education but attempts to strike out in the lines of various reforms that seem now impending. Perhaps half of the work is devoted to topics outside the curriculum as it is the most narrowly defined. The chief topics are: the new kindergarten, religious training, moral education, training of sex, children's lies, dancing, study of children and its relations to child welfare agencies, defects of our educational system, pedagogy of music, art and drawing, festivals, play, theater, pedagogy of pedagogy, of history, of the high school, the university, the college, professional schools.

ADOLESCENCE

Its Psychology and Its Relations to Physiology, Anthropology, Sociology, Sex, Crime, Religion, and Education

Dr. Hall's "Adolescence" has become generally known as the great work on the Psychology of Youth. There is no book on the subject like it in completeness of data or minuteness of analysis. It is to bring the essentials of this invaluable work within easy reach of parents, teachers, and pupils of advanced grades that the single, smaller volume, "Youth," has been prepared.

Two volumes, 8vo, cloth, $7.50 net

YOUTH

Its Education, Regimen and Hygiene

The topics of the larger work here included are those of immediate practical value to the average teacher and parent. The deductions of the "Adolescence" are retained, but a simple statement of the nature of the statistics leading to them usually replaces the statistical tables. The chapter on "Moral and Religious Training" is new in this connection, being drawn from a later writing of Dr. Hall.

Railway Rates and Traffic

By EMORY R. JOHNSON
Professor of Transportation and Commerce, University of Pennsylvania; and

GROVER G. HUEBNER
Instructor in Transportation and Commerce, University of Pennsylvania

Large 12mo, cloth, two volumes, $5.00 net

This volume is written primarily to meet the demand of railway officials for authentic information regarding traffic services and rate systems. Part One discusses the characteristics, sources, volume and earnings of American railroad traffic; Part Two contains thirteen detailed chapters concerning the several freight services—terminal facilities, shipping papers and accounts, car service, records and demurrage, shipper's cars, fast freight lines, time and preference freight, freight traffic associations and the development of traffic. Part Three opens with a description of freight classifications followed by seven chapters on rate making and rate systems which contain the first comprehensive account ever written of the several systems of rates in force in different parts of the United States. Parts Three and Four deal with passenger services and fares according to the plan followed in discussing freight traffic and rates. This work is the result of years of study. It is written in a concise and clear style, and is a manual that will be of daily assistance to railway officials, and will be useful to government officers, university students, and all writers upon transportation questions.

Railroad Administration

By RAY MORRIS

The idea in this book is to tie together the study of the various branches of railroad operation as the General Manager of a road has to tie them together. The General Manager often finds that his mechanical engineers are more interested in their own special kinds of records than they are in the broad welfare of the property. In a word, the book is intended to help broaden the young specialist by giving him an idea of the relation of his specialty to the entire program, and it is also intended to give the non-technical man a general idea of how the general problems in administration are gotten at.

By J. J. SULLIVAN, A.M., LL.B., Instructor in Business Law, University of Pennsylvania; author of "American Business Law."

The volume describes the procedure of financing a corporation, including the raising of money for construction, etc., the distribution of corporate earnings, the different types of the securities issued to obtain new funds and the considerations influencing the selection of different types, the methods of consolidating corporations, the procedure in receivership and the methods of reorganization of the capital accounts of solvent and insolvent corporations. Business Management

By JOHN CHRISTIE DUNCAN, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of Accountancy, University of Illinois.

This book is presented to give both the accountant and the general student of business a brief presentation of the underlying questions of the science of business. The accountant should have knowledge of more than the mere methods of making entries in books and drafting statements therefrom. He should be able to appreciate the kind of information the management needs and the extent to which accounting records can gather the various types of information.

Property Insurance

By SOLOMON HUEBNER, M.S., Ph.D., Professor of Commerce, University of Pennsylvania.

The object of this work is to present the important facts and problems connected with those forms of insurance which indemnify owners against the loss of property. It is prepared chiefly as a text-book for students of insurance in colleges and universities, who either intend to enter the profession or who wish to understand its nature as a business and its usefulness to the property owner. This book, however, should also prove of value and interest to many who are engaged in the insurance business, as agents or brokers.

REMINISCENCES OF ROSA BONHEUR

By THEODORE STANTON

This book consists of the intimate letters written by members of the great animal painter's family to her, those of her close friends, and her own replies thereto, together with the opinions and recollections expressed by those friends concerning the artist and her work.

THE BIG GAME OF AFRICA

By RICHARD TJÄDER

The author has been more than once to Africa for The American Museum of Natural History; and, on his return from his last trip, he furnished the Museum with thirteen tons of specimens, including the head of an elephant larger than "Jumbo," and brought to the Bronx Zoölogical Gardens a live rhinoceros. This book differs from other books describing hunting for big game in Africa, inasmuch as it has a scientific basis and deals very fully with all of the requirements for such an expedition.

Illustrated with 32 pages of photographs taken by the author.

IGNITION PRINCIPLES AND SYSTEMS

By ROGER B. WHITMAN, Author of "Motor Car Principles"

Ignition is the most essential element of a gas or gasoline engine, and the least understood. Ignition apparatus is constructed by specialists, and systems are delivered complete to engine makers, who are satisfied to know enough to install them properly. Heretofore, there has been no complete work on the subject in English—this book deals with it in simple and non-technical language, but thoroughly and authoritatively.

STUDIES IN SPIRITISM

By DR. AMY E. TANNER. With an Introduction by Dr. G. STANLEY HALL

Dr. G. Stanley Hall writes: "I know nothing in the field that has appeared in recent times that at all ably and adequately represents the negative side with reference to the spiritualistic-telepathic hypothesis, which I think is very strongly favored by our studies of Mrs. Piper." He contributes an introduction on the general subject and chapters on the testing of psychical phenomena and psychical manifestations of spiritism and mediums and the conditions of communication.

MOTHERHOOD: The Story of Pregnancy in Relation to the Health of the Mother and Child

By J. MORRIS SLEMONS, M.D., Associate in Obstetrics, the Johns Hopkins Hospital

The book is designed for expectant mothers and will prove particularly valuable for those who await the birth of the first child. An accurate, systematic account of the natural changes incident to pregnancy, as they are here set forth, will afford the surest means of removing many superstitions, of dispelling alarm aroused too frequently by "old wives' tales" and of teaching prospective mothers the reasonableness of hygienic living.

LE PETIT HOMME ROUGE

THE FAVOURITES OF HENRY OF NAVARRE

With 6 portraits, large 8vo, cloth, ornamental, gilt top, $3.00 net. Postage, 20 cents.

In all probability Henry of Navarre, otherwise Henri IV., was the most remarkable and popular of the many kings of France. His life was almost entirely made up of love and war, and the names of some of the women he loved, "the beautiful Corisanda," "the beautiful Gabrielle," and "the wicked Henriette," have remained as indissolubly linked to his own as those of his two wives, the libelled though not blameless Queen Margot, and the sorely tried Marie de Medici. Under the title of "The Favourites of Henry of Navarre" Le Petit Homme Rouge" (whose "Court of the Tuileries, 1852–1870," was so favorably received) recounts the story of the king's affections; his volume embraces all the results of modern research on the subject, correcting or supplementing information given by many earlier writers, sifting the evidence on various doubtful points, and at the same time gives a profusion of anecdotes, so that in addition to its historical importance the book abounds in lively and vivacious passages, which make it capital reading.

In reviewing the book from advance sheets the London Morning Leader says: "It is the personal life of a monarch who lived scandalously, from our point of view. But it is not suggestive. It is certainly real and responsible history, and the book is necessary to all who study the personal side of French court life." The book is fully indexed.

TRANSLATED AND EDITED BY JANET ROSS

LIVES OF THE EARLY MEDICI

As told in their correspondence. With 12 portraits and facsimiles. Large 8vo. Cloth, ornamental, gilt top, $4.00 net. Postage, 21 cents.

This volume of Letters reveals not only the extraordinary ability and political acumen of the founders of the great house of Medici, but their every-day life at their villas, their amusements, their journeys, and their marriages. The ladies of the family pass before one like figures out of a fresco of the fifteenth century; Contessina, thrifty and rather fussy; Clarice, a good woman, but unfitted by her Roman and clerical education for the brilliant circle of poets and wits who gathered around the Magnificent Lorenzo. There are letters from popes and kings, from Platonists and poets, and all have been faithfully translated by Mrs. Ross, who has strung them together with an introduction and the necessary explanatory paragraphs. In addition to other illustrations, the book contains two newly discovered portraits of Lorenzo de Medici. The volume has a comprehensive index.

PHILLIPPE MONNIER

VENICE IN THE EIGHTEENTH CENTURY

With frontispiece in photogravure. Large 8vo, cloth, ornamental, gilt top, boxed, $3.00 net. Postage, 18 cents.

As is Paris to-day, so in the eighteenth century was Venice the acknowledged pleasure city of Europe. M. Monnier, whose work received the honor of being "crowned" by the French Academy, here interprets the period with the pen of an artist and a lover. He has penetrated to the essential spirit of perhaps the most graceful as well as the most abandoned society known to modern Europe; while together with this grace and luxury, he presents it as the lively center of a peculiarly bright and energetic intellectual life. The author's treatment of his theme is picturesque rather than historical, but as a serious essay in the reconstruction of a little known social and political atmosphere he has produced a work of exceptional importance.

Reviewing the book from advance sheets the London Evening Standard says: "From the multitude of authorities, M. Monnier has formed a living picture of Venice in the eighteenth century, has embodied her very frame and substance. The reader is not pestered with what this and that writer says. His attention is not diverted from the spectacle by the advertisements. He is placed in the middle of it. Its figures and its pageantry pass before him. He sees the brilliance of the one, he seems to feel the breath of the others. As he hurries from page to page, driven by the energy and enthusiasm of the writer, the atmosphere of this old, old city of pleasure envelops him. We commend M. Monnier's book to all lovers of Venice. The vivacity and glow of the pages are masterly."

And the London Observer adds, "the translation retains the grace and brilliance and picturesqueness of the original. It is a fine study of decadence; for if ever, since Sodom and Gomorrah, a city deserved its doom, it was Venice when the bitter end came at the hands of Napoleon."

C. P. CAPE

BENARES: THE STRONGHOLD OF HINDUISM

With 42 illustrations. 8vo, ornamental cloth, gilt top, boxed, $2.00 net. Postage, 15 cents.

A deeply interesting book, written in a vivid, fascinating style by one who has lived many years in this ancient city on the Ganges. Mr. Cape gives an insight into the full life and character of the people seldom shown in the ordinary book of travel. The illustrations are superb.

J. Mark Baldwin

THE INDIVIDUAL AND SOCIETY; OR, PSYCHOLOGY AND SOCIOLOGY

12*mo, cloth,* $1.50 net. Postage, 10 cents.

Professor Baldwin, head of the department of Philosophy and Psychology at Johns Hopkins, is generally conceded the most eminent American psychologist. All of his books are at once authoritative and popular. "The Individual and Society" is one of the most important he has yet written, and is undoubtedly destined to outsell any of his previous works. The work has these principal divisions: I. The Individual and the Group. II. Social Solidarity and Community. III. Social Competition and Individualism. IV. Social Institutions — The School, the State, the Church. V. Social Invention and Progress. VI. The Philosophy of Business. VII. Sociology and Social Philosophy.

Morton Prince, Editor

SUBCONSCIOUS PHENOMENA

12*mo, cloth,* $1.20 net. Postage, 9 cents.

This monograph is one of the most important works on the subject of the subconscious yet published. The chapters are written by Hugo Münsterberg, Theodore Ribot, Pierre Janet, Joseph Jastrow, Bernard Hart, and Morton Prince.

Charles Gray Shaw

THE VALUE AND DIGNITY OF HUMAN LIFE

As shown in the Striving and Suffering of the Individual. 12*mo, cloth,* $2.00 net. Postage, 15 cents.

This work will prove: first, of interest to the student, since its discussions are carried on in full view of classic moralists from Socrates to Spinoza, from Kant to Nietzsche.

Second, valuable to the literary person, who will find in its pages a study of ethics which appreciates the strivings of Wagner and Tolstoi, Sudermann, Gorki, and Anatole France.

Third, helpful to the serious reader, because it seeks to show him how happiness is to be attained and the end of life achieved.

The tone of the work is idealistic, the aim is to apprehend the invisible. The method is egoistic; solidarity is repudiated everywhere. The purpose is to elaborate a system of major morality, emancipating man from minor ethical ideas. Pessimism is not ignored, but the book leads to the conviction that humanity will triumph both over nature and itself. Dr. Shaw is professor of Philosophy in New York University.

ERNEST PROTHEROE, F.Z.S.

THE HANDY NATURAL HISTORY

With over 300 illustrations, 137 being in full color. Large 8*vo, ornamental cloth, with two cover inlays in full color, gilt top, boxed,* $4.00 net. Postage, 25 cents.

This work is primarily intended to encourage an intelligent interest in the fascinating study of natural history by that large class of readers who have neither the time nor the taste for intricate technical details. The illustrations form what is unquestionably the most superb series ever issued in a work of this kind. The index is unusually comprehensive. It is at once the most complete, authoritative, and beautifully made book on this subject ever put on the market at a popular price.

H. LINCOLN TANGYE, F.R.G.S.

IN THE TORRID SUDAN

With 61 illustrations and a map. Large 8*vo, ornamental cloth, gilt top,* $3.00 net. Postage, 20 cents.

This book, while dealing with sport and travel in the Sudan, also describes its geography and interesting history, its internal conditions, administration, and development. Incidents of an extended shooting trip are related, and a particular feature is the description of a journey into a little known part of the country where the human being is exhibited in his most primitive state. The illustrations are most interesting, and there is a complete index.

LAURENCE HARRIS, F.R.G.S.

WITH MULAI HAFID AT FEZ: BEHIND THE SCENES AT MOROCCO

With a frontispiece in color and 38 illustrations. 8*vo, ornamental cloth, gilt top, boxed,* $3.00 net. Postage, 15 cents.

This is probably the first volume yet written describing Morocco as it really is. Most books are full of misplaced sympathy and poetical sentimentalism. In reality Morocco is the most glaring example in the world of a country of degenerate mankind. Mr. Harris enjoyed exceptional advantages at the Court of Mulai Hafid — a strong man among weaklings — and has thus been enabled to get a closer insight into the life and customs of the people than ever before accorded to a stranger. The illustrations, either photographs or from original drawings by the author, are particularly interesting.

CHARLES BATTELL LOOMIS

JUST IRISH

New illustrated edition; with 30 illustrations from photographs by the author. Original photograph cover inlay. 12mo, ornamental cloth, gilt top, boxed, $1.50 net. Postage, 12 cents.

Just Irish is one of the most popular books Mr. Loomis has ever written, and in this new edition will make a strong appeal to even a wider audience.

" It is one of the best and most thoroughly enjoyable things he has given us; an altogether charming description of a deviation from the beaten paths of travel in a region that is all too little known," says Los Angeles Express. The many photographs taken by the author will be an endless source of pleasure to the reader.

MARY MATTHEWS BRAY

MY GRANDMOTHER'S GARDEN AND AN ORCHARD ANCESTRAL

16mo, full, flexible leather, ribbon marker, gilt top, uncut edges, $1.00 net. Postage, 6 cents.

This is one of the most appealing little books ever written. All of us had grandmothers, most of our grandmothers had gardens, dear old gardens that they loved, and that we love because they did, and because old gardens had a charm and fascination no new garden ever could possess. We all remember orchards too — some ancestral, some just plain orchards that we entered (and left) hurriedly when we wanted an apple — but there never was a more fascinating orchard than this one on Old Cape Cod; that begins back of My Grandmother's Garden, and stretches far, far away into the dreamy past. My Grandmother's Garden originally appeared in The Atlantic Monthly, and is reprinted in its present attractive form to fulfil hundreds of requests made Mrs. Bray. An Orchard Ancestral, printed here for the first time, has even greater charm than My Grandmother's Garden.

SARAH WARNER BROOKS

A GARDEN WITH HOUSE ATTACHED

Illustrated. 8vo, ornamental cloth, gilt top, boxed, $1.50 net. Postage, 12 cents.

A new edition of this most interesting volume on gardening. "If," says Mrs. Brooks, " I may furnish some useful hints to the amateur, and may incidentally entertain him with various bits of information in regard to the works and ways of flowering plants, my end in making this book will be well attained." That she has achieved her desire is clearly shown by the constantly growing demand which has made the preparation of this new and exceedingly attractive edition a necessity.

THOMAS S. BLAIR, M.D.

PUBLIC HYGIENE

With about 300 illustrations. Large 8vo, buckram leather labels, 2 volumes in a box, $10.00 net. Express extra.

This is not only the most important work on Public Hygiene, but as a matter of fact it is the only one covering this vital subject in all its phases. It is a work that should be in the library of every doctor, every board of health and school board, all sanitarians, hotel men, hospital officers, park boards, many classes of municipal officers, farmers of the advanced order, architects, builders, plumbers, and manufacturers, and in fact every intelligent reader who realizes that proper sanitation is the basis of public health. Dr. Blair is neurologist at the Harrisburg (Pa.) hospital, and the author of A Practitioner's Handbook of Materia Medica. He has been assisted by numerous specialists everywhere recognized as the leading authorities in their several lines.

Chap. I — Introductory; The Family versus the Community.
Chap. II — Hotels, Lodging Houses, Public Buildings.

Absolutely everything in public health administration and work is considered in the various chapters, and the whole forms a work directed as much to the intelligent layman as to the physician.

ADRIAN HOFFMAN JOLINE

EDGEHILL ESSAYS

Large 8vo, antique boards, gilt top, paper label, uncut edges, $2.00 net. Postage, 12 cents.

Mr. Joline is the pleasantest of bibliophiles and the most delightful of present day essayists. Even so severe a critic as The Nation is forced to admit that " in the pages of some remote dissertators on the American essay, he may attain a pale immortality." Fortunately it is not necessary for Mr. Joline to wait for appreciation until he has gained immortality, if we may judge from the steadily increasing sale of his books. Edgehill Essays contains seven of his inimitable papers: About the Bookshelves, The Quest of the Autograph, A Georgian Poet (Akenside), A Famous Reviewer (Jeffrey), Manners Makyth Man, Reflections of an Autograph Lover, and A Certain Affectation of the Great.

In uniform style, AT THE LIBRARY TABLE. $2.00 net. Postage 12 cents. The 2 volumes in a box, $4.00 net. Postage, 25 cents. The two volumes in full crushed levant, hand tooled, in a box, $25.00 net.

JOHN ALBEE

CONFESSIONS OF BOYHOOD

12mo, buckram, paper label, uncut edges, $1.50 net. Postage, 9 cents.

These random reminiscences of country life in New England half a century ago, written in the same unenthusiastic key as Charles Dudley Warner wrote Being a Boy, will make a strong appeal to many. The Boston Transcript says: " We might well wish there were more mortals of Mr. Albee's kind in the world, more men and women who live for quietly flowing content rather than for rapidly hurrying turmoil, more human beings who believe that progress is as much a devotion to the past and its ideals as a search for the future and its idols. At any rate, these "Confessions " will in their descriptions of country life arouse in many readers a feeling that Mr. Albee was richly blessed in his birthplace and that he is the most fortunate of men in retaining his love for it through a long and busy life."

OMAR KHAYYÁM

THE RUBÁIYÁT

Translated by Isaac Dooman, with an Introduction and Notes. 12mo, flexible cloth, $1.00 net. Postage, 6 cents.

This translation is particularly notable in view of the fact that it is the first attempt of a native Persian to put oriental poetry into English verse. Aside from the merit of the translation the work is of unique interest for the new light the Introduction and Notes cast upon Omar's thought.

CYRIL G. HOPKINS

THE STORY OF THE SOIL

With 7 illustrations. 12*mo, cloth,* $1.50 net. Postage, 15 cents.

This is a romance of the real life and shifting scenes of the old South and the great West, but interwoven with the romance is a gradually unfolding story of the fundamental science of the soil, so simply written that every one may read and understand. Why is the cost of living high? Where and how are foodstuffs produced? Why are there vast areas of depleted lands and abandoned farms in the East and South? How can these be restored to high productiveness with certainty, economy, and profit? These are among the questions which can and should be understood by every American man and woman, not only in the country, but also in the town and city; for the city is the first to feel the country's poverty, and the soil is the breast of Mother Earth, from which her children must always draw their nourishment, or perish. "The Story of the Soil" not only entertains, but it also carries to the American people the profoundly important message of the absolute science of the soil, and a message which every reader may apply, either directly or through his friends who own or may own a piece of the earth's surface. Professor Hopkins is head of the Department of Agronomy and Chemistry at the College of Agriculture of the University of Illinois.

W. R. DUNHAM, M.D.

SCIENCE OF HUMAN LIFE

12*mo, cloth,* $1.00 net. Postage, 10 cents.

Dr. Dunham's book is revolutionary in its teachings. His claims are that vital power is the only active principle and that active medical principle is a delusion, at the same time he provides for a more successful management of disease. Whether one agrees with Dr. Dunham or not, it is impossible to deny the force of his arguments and the interest he creates in the mind of his readers.

JULIUS WOLFF

TANNHAÜSER, MINNESINGER, AND KNIGHT TEMPLAR

Illustrated. 12*mo, cloth, ornamental, gilt top, uncut edges, boxed,* $2.00 net. Postage, 19 cents.

Julius Wolff occupies comparatively the same place in German literature that Scott does in English. Tannhaüser, his most notable piece of work, is a metrical romance of the Third and Fourth Crusades, and has all the thrill and excitement of those stirring times of strenuous warfare, passionate love, and religious zeal. The translation by Charles G. Kendall is excellent.

HENRY A. SHUTE

PLUPY, "THE REAL BOY"

With over 50 full page illustrations by Warren Rockwell. 12*mo, cloth, ornamental, decorative end papers in tint,* $1.50.

This is without exception the most genuinely humorous piece of work Judge Shute has ever done. Plupy Shute is worthy of a place beside Huckleberry Finn, Tom Sawyer, and Tom Bailey, if indeed he does not win an even wider audience than these youthful immortals. Plupy has the same touch that sold one hundred thousand copies of The Real Diary of a Real Boy, except that, as a whole, it is better than Judge Shute's first great success.

Of the illustrations the author himself says, "The illustrator has been able to put more vim, life, and expression to the illustrations than I ever saw in anything of the kind. Silhouettes are generally flat and lifeless, but these are great. I think the expression of the face and gestures of the blacksmith notifying my mother of the broken window is a classic." And authors are proverbially hard to suit when it comes to the illustration of their own work.

ANONYMOUS

HER HIGHNESS: AN ADIRONDACK ROMANCE

Photogravure frontispiece. 12*mo, cloth, ornamental,* $1.50.

This is a lively romance of to-day that starts with a snap on the first page and never loses interest until the last page is finished. The author, although very well known, wishes to issue this anonymously to prove that the real worth of his work, not his name, is what sells his books. If you remember "Graustark" and liked it, get "Her Highness," you will like that even better.

WILLIAM LE QUEUX

THE GREAT GOD GOLD

12*mo, cloth, ornamental,* $1.50.

The most interesting piece of work this popular author has yet produced. In it is revealed, by means of a remarkable cipher in the original Book of Ezekiel, the existence of which was recently discovered by a professor at the University of Abo, in Finland, a mystery which has remained unsolved since the destruction of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar. An attempt was made a short time ago to exploit this secret financially in London, and it is around this incident that Mr. Le Queux has written the story.

GEORGE WALDO BROWNE

RUEL DURKEE: MASTER OF MEN

Illustrated. 12*mo, cloth, ornamental,* $1.50.

This romance of Real Life in New Hampshire during the closing years of the Civil War possesses uncommon interest. It is not a political novel with a moral to teach; it has no great public grievance to settle; but it describes scenes within the circles with a graphic pen.

The town meeting as it was conducted a generation ago is pictured with wonderful fidelity to truth. The most stirring and dramatic session of the state legislature is described with a vividness that is unbroken until the end. The adventures of the Union soldier hunted as a deserter and the fortunes of the fugitive Southern soldier lend their share to the development of the story.

All these are secondary to the interest that encircles the leading character of the book, Ruel Durkee. This farmer politician, man of many-sided influences, is treated in an impartial manner, and we see him as he was, in his strength and in his weakness, but withal a grand figure in the midst of trying scenes.

NANCY K. FOSTER

NOT OF HER RACE

Illustrated. 12*mo, cloth, ornamental,* $1.50.

A romance of Southern California, in which the author has an almost fresh field in the California Mexicans. Not only is the passing of the old régime portrayed, but in the hero we have a contemporary type of the now almost extinct race. The conquering charm of his character, the beauty and dignity of his passion, before Anglo-Saxon emotions petrified by a material culture and civilization, is a new motif in American fiction.

The setting of the story is something more than local color and landscape, it is no mere idyllic embellishment. It influences the heroine, it determines the crises. Out of the great, subtle West alone, the land of desert, mountain ranges, and the vast Pacific, could nature appear as a force at once so integral and appealing.

ALBERT E. LYONS

MISTER BILL: A MAN

Illustrated. 12*mo, cloth, ornamental, colored cover inlay,* $1.50.

Mister Bill is an exceptional book in many respects. Not only is the plot of unusual strength and interest, the characters truly, even powerfully drawn, and a love story of intensely human interest interwoven, but when one has finished the book he realizes that he has read something more than fiction. It is a book every one should read — old and young can meet on common ground.

MAY KELLOGG SULLIVAN

THE TRAIL OF A SOURDOUGH

Illustrated. 12*mo, cloth, ornamental,* $1.50.

This book gives as vivid and true description of life in Alaska as any of the works of Rex Beach or Jack London. Mrs. Sullivan's knowledge was gained on seven trips through Alaska, extending over a period of ten years. Her first book, " A Woman who went to Alaska," is now in its ninth thousand. To the uninitiated we would explain that a Sourdough is a miner who has spent one entire winter in Alaska. When far from civilization and beyond the reach of yeast or other leaven, a miner always carefully saves from each batch of bread a small portion, which is set aside until it turns sour. This sour dough is used as leaven for the next baking. Thus the word sourdough has finally come to mean those who have been forced to put this custom to actual practice.

HARRISON JEWELL HOLT

THE CALENDARED ISLES: A ROMANCE OF CASCO BAY

12*mo, cloth, ornamental,* $1.50.

The author of this tale, although new to the novel reading public, does not lack the gift of neat originality. It is the latter which makes of this book a bright companion for an hour or so.

It's a love story of no hackneyed sort. The hero is a newspaper man and — strange to say! — he and the other fourth estate folk whom one meets at times during the novel's course are not the usual caricatures on the journalistic ilk, but really right true to life. Also, the heroine has blood and spirit, strength and humor. Then again, the plot is a lively one, yet not too melodramatic. And some of the minor characters, " Keturah " and the serious Mrs. Sterling, are well drawn, " Keturah " more particularly so. One hopes to see another volume from his pen.— Chicago Inter-Ocean.

FANNIE BOND RICE

A SAINT OF THE TWENTIETH CENTURY

12*mo, cloth,* $1.50.

The "Saint of the Twentieth Century" is a new-fashioned Methodist minister, who took hold of a New England church when it had reached a low level in attendance and efficiency.

The story deals more with the externals of life and religion than with the things of the heart, but it is easy and pleasant reading, and has plenty of kindly humor and sentiment of a simple and old-fashioned type.—New Orleans Picayune.

WARREN AND ALICE FONES

THE MAN WITH THE SCAR: A CHRISTIAN SCIENCE STORY

Illustrated. 12*mo, cloth, ornamental,* $1.50.

A story with a strong, vigorous plot, full of incident and interest from first chapter to last, whether the reader is a Christian Scientist or not. From the Cumberland mountains and the mountaineers, loyal to each other, if lawless in the interpretation of the law of the land; ignorant and primitive, but quickly responding to the law of Love, the thread of the story leads us to the mountains and plains of Arizona, where the poor Mexican mother with her sick child reaches out blindly for that healing of love, and responds with all the gratitude of her hot beating heart; showing how wrongs may be righted and ills healed, the dark places made light, and the crooked places made straight. A book worth reading.

H. D. PITTMANN

GO FORTH AND FIND

12*mo, cloth,* $1.50.

By way of contrast to the present style of love story, here is one of the wholesome variety that all sections of the country unite in praising.

A story of true love, whose course for once ran smoothly along the happiest of ways. It is a quiet, happy story, full of all that is best and most endearing in the relations between young lovers.—New York Times.

A love story of the good, wholesome variety, and has a well-developed plot.—San Francisco Bulletin.

There is nothing that is not pleasant and wholesome, and it illustrates the ambitions and ideals of many happy young lovers before and after marriage.—New Orleans Picayune.

EMMA E. MEGUIRE

THE MAKIN'S OF A GIRL

12*mo, cloth, ornamental,* $1.50.

The story of what went to the making of one charming girl. Mrs. Meguire has carried her through a gently expansive career — from mud pies to matrimony. As Patty Pat she is most winning; as Patricia Dunnington, the unconscious belle of an Atlantic liner, she is adorable. The author's irrepressible vitality and cheerfulness of life leaven every page. The book is full of fun, philosophy, and wholesome foolishness. It also strikes the deeper note that makes the whole world kin.

GEORGE WALDO BROWNE

GREEN MOUNTAIN PIONEERS

Illustrated. 12*mo, cloth, ornamental,* $1.50.

The first volume of what is destined to become a very popular series for boys. The scene is laid in revolutionary Vermont.

HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD

THE FAIRY CHANGELING

A Flower and Fairy Play for Children. Illustrated by Fanny Y. Cory. 12*mo, cloth, ornamental,* $1.00 net. Postage, 6 cents.

This appealing little play has full directions for stage setting and costumes.

JESSIE ANDERSON CHASE

A DAUGHTER OF THE REVOLUTION

Illustrated. 12*mo, ornamental, cloth, toned inlay,* $1.00.

The inlay on the cover of this book for girls gives the keynote to the story. Children love an attic, with its quaint old things to "dress up in." And they love just such a story as A Daughter of the Revolution, full of real boys and girls of the olden time, who lived in these clothes and played in these very attics.

This book is a charming gift for any girl from eight to eighteen. It is a story for the imaginative child to steal into a corner with, or for a mother to read to her little group by the fireside.

The book is illustrated with some excellent photographs showing Revolutionary scenes and costumes.

SIDFORD F. HAMP

COCO BOLO, KING OF THE FLOATING ISLANDS

Illustrated. 12*mo, ornamental, cloth,* $1.00.

An exceedingly clever juvenile, with twelve full-page illustrations by Otto Hopp, a rising young artist, with a refreshing and decidedly original imagination.

A. B. LE BOUTILLIER

A CALENDAR OF SAINTS AND HOLY DAYS

9 by 18 inches. Boxed. $2.00 net. Postage, 12 cents.

This is a handsome set of twelve drawings, each printed in two colors on a separate sheet. The full calendar of saints, the holy days and movable feasts of the church are all given. It is the only calendar published giving this data in a worthy form.

Poet Lore

(Title registered as a trade mark)

Edited by Charlotte Porter and Helen A. Clarke

Poet Lore is the only periodical publishing an unabridged translation of some notable foreign play in each issue. These are obtainable in no other form. In addition to the plays each number contains much other matter of first importance to those seriously interested in literature.

A list of Poet Lore plays still in print, with the advanced prices at which they are now selling, will be found on pages 18 and 19 of this catalogue. The only way to make sure of securing copies is by becoming a regular subscriber.

Poet Lore is published bi-monthly. $1.25 a copy. $5.00 a year.

The Journal of Abnormal Psychology

Edited by Morton Prince, M.D.

The Journal of Abnormal Psychology stands as the representative of the scientific study of the abnormal phases of mind. It publishes the researches and practical conclusions of the most eminent representatives in this branch of study. To those who desire more than a vague general and more or less unreliable account of the present position and attainments of abnormal or medical psychology The Journal of Abnormal Psychology is the only source available. The earlier numbers of this Journal are practically unobtainable — Volume I having sold as high as $15.00. As this was purchased by a leading university, it well illustrates the esteem in which The Journal is held.

The Journal of Abnormal Psychology is published bi-monthly, 50 cents a copy, $3.00 a year.

The Journal of Inebriety

Edited by T. D. Crothers, M.D.

Thirty-three years ago The Journal was established for the distinct purpose of teaching the medical public that Inebriety is a disease, both curable and preventable.

As a result of its work, the disease of Inebriety is to-day recognized as one of the most serious of all the evils which threaten civilization and the longevity of the race.

The Journal stands alone in the work of grouping the facts and conclusions from clinical and laboratory studies along physiological, pathological, and therapeutic lines.

The Journal of Inebriety is published quarterly. 50 cents a copy. $2.00 a year.

PLUPY is real, all right, he and Beany and Pewt and Fatty and Whack and Bug and the others are about the realest boys that ever walked into American fiction, and its hardly fiction either, because most of it is true.

PLUPY is better than the same author's Real Diary of a Real Boy, and that sold over

Two large printings of PLUPY have already been called for before publication.

The Baker and Taylor Company

NEW YORK

THE BAKER & TAYLOR CO. is one of the oldest book firms in this country and in point of age approximates the rank of such houses as D. Appleton & Co. and Harper's. Its existence dates from about 1830 and its foundations were laid in Hartford, Conn., when and where F. Herbertson and B. B. Barbour established a bindery, opened a book store and published historical and subscription books, later adding school books. The business thus founded has continued under various changes of name and address.

In 1835 it moved to New York and was successively Robinson, Pratt & Co., Pratt, Woodford & Co., Farmer, Brace & Co., Pratt, Oakley & Co., Oakley, Mason & Co., Mason, Baker & Pratt, and Baker, Pratt & Co. On January 1st, 1885, James S. Baker and Nelson Taylor, having purchased together the book department of the Baker Pratt Co., established themselves as publishers and wholesale book dealers, at No. 9 Bond Street. In August, 1886, the business was incorporated under its present title of The Baker & Taylor Co. Since 1885 the house has greatly extended its jobbing activities and increased its publishing interests, which from that date have grown at a conservative pace into the substantial publishing business of to-day.

The Baker & Taylor Co. are general publishers, and their imprint covers as wide a range of subjects as Art, Fiction, Biography, History, Travel, Religion and Education. Perhaps it is best known in the fields of Art, Education and Religion. In the last of these fields the publications of the house have won considerable eminence and general acceptance, largely through the books of such religious leaders as Dr. Cuyler, Dr. Pierson and Dr. Strong. In the field of Education its publications have included a considerable number of important books, both in single titles and in series, and these are becoming increasingly recognized and valued by leaders in educational theory and practice. In the field of Art, the publications of the house have been and continue noteworthy, including works of permanence and authority in Architecture, Painting and the allied arts. During the past few years the house has taken increasing interest in books for young readers, and biography, in both of which fields its publications are gaining reputation.

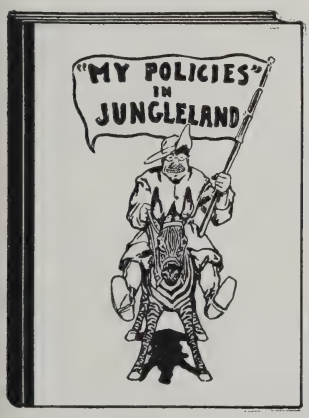
MY POLICIES IN JUNGLELAND



By Fletcher C. Ransom

How "Teddy" enjoyed the fun of flourishing the Big Stick in Jungleland is told by Mr. Ransom in his inimitable style.

From the first story, telling of Roosevelt's arrival in Jungleland to the last page, in which he bids good-by to dear old Africa, it is full of humor. The illustrations in color, 53 in number, picture Roosevelt in all manner of comical situations and give a pictorial record of his adventures, which will be amusing to young and old alike.

One cartoon which will probably appeal to a large number of readers, pictures the meeting of Roosevelt and his old friend "Stork." The latter tells "Teddy" what a bully fellow he is and thinks him the finest advance agent for "Stork" and prosperity—no, posterity.

THE WEALTH OF FRIENDSHIP

Compiled by Wallace and Frances Rice

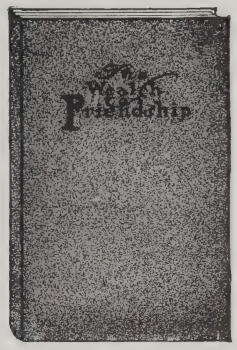
Cloth.

WITH A PREFATORY HOMILY ON

FRIENDSHIP

By the

Rev. Frank W. Gunsaulus



Velvet calf.

Dr. Gunsaulus, the most popular pulpit and platform lecturer in the United States, has written the introduction for the most inclusive selection of extracts regarding friendship ever brought together in a single volume. He has seen in the theme of friendship the basis of all true religion, and has stamped with his approval the work of the compilers. They in turn have exhausted English literature from the time of Queen Elizabeth to that of President Taft in order to present in the briefest possible space the views of all great writers in Great Britain and America on this most interesting topic. They have drawn extensively on the languages of continental Europe, in many cases making original translations of the sentiments of the most famous authors and poets there. Classical Greece and Rome have also yielded the treasures of their mighty antiquity, a time when friendship was most highly valued. And finally the sacred Scriptures have been diligently searched for this same high purpose. Several bits of Mr. Rice's hitherto unpublished verse have been included, leaving this the furthest reaching compilation on the finest relation between human beings ever published.

Printed in two colors on fine paper, and bound in lavender silk finish cloth. Cover stamped in gold. Size 5 x 8¼ inches. Attractively boxed, $1.25.

Paste grain leather, boxed, $2.00.

Velvet calf, boxed, $2.00.

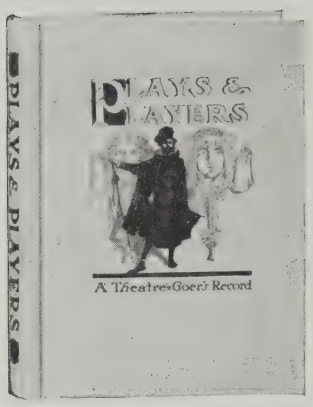
PLAYS AND PLAYERS

A Theatre-Goer's Record

Everybody Should Save Their Theatre Programs



In after years many of them become historic and increase wonderfully in value as souvenirs of the great plays and actors you have seen. Nearly every one takes home his theatre program, and is at a loss afterward what to do with it, or where to put it so it can be found when wanted in the future. Here is a book that solves the problem in which one may keep a record of the plays seen, the date, play, theatre, in whose company, coupons of seats, comments on the play and players, synopsis of scenes, cast of characters, pictures, scenes and clippings pertaining to the play.

A very attractive book for gift purposes or for one's own use. Size 8¾ x 6¾ inches.

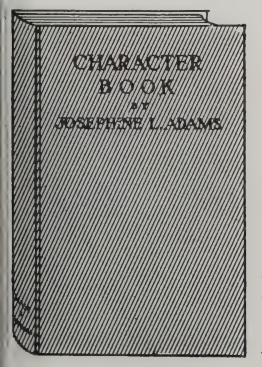
CHARACTER BOOK



Arranged by Josephine L. Adams

This book is prepared for and dedicated to "the girls." It is for their girl friends to write in, being left with many inviting blank spaces for the answer to interesting questions about their favorite people, songs, amusements, plays, books and other things one naturally wants to know about. The sum total of all these queries not only furnishes lots of fun at the time of writing, but also gives a good character study of the writer and a souvenir of one's friends, which every girl will be glad to treasure.

It is said that life is made up of little things. Certainly, as we look back, these trifles often seem of most interest and value to us. And it is in order to preserve some of these stray bits of gold dust that this CHARACTER BOOK has been prepared—at the suggestion of one clever girl.

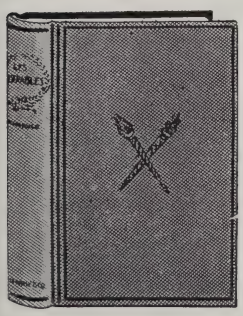
THREE MASTERPIECES



..... LES MISERABLES, by Victor Hugo
..... MYSTERIES OF PARIS, by Eugene Sue
..... THE WANDERING JEW, by Eugene Sue

It has been difficult heretofore to get these exceedingly long stories in one volume and at the same time in a large and clear enough type that can be read without tiring the eyes. It has been accomplished, however, in this edition, the type being fairly large, well spaced, clear, and the paper opaque enough, so that the printing does not show through from the other side, making the volume one that can be easily read. They are splendidly bound, in dark wine-colored library cloth, with title neatly stamped in gold on back, open easily, one and three-quarters inches thick, and contain over one thousand pages. These books make a splendid item for department or book stores to "stack up," and make a special leader of.

12mo, cloth, 75c.

TOASTS AND AFTER-DINNER STORIES

Being a careful selection of the best toasts and sentiments, new and old, gleaned from the writings of standard and popular authors and conveniently arranged for reference. The scope of the subjects is wide and the variety such that this book is all that could be desired in a book of toasts. The latter half of the book is a collection of side-splitting and clever stories as told by the great humorists and well-known after-dinner speakers. Here again the wide range of subjects make this book especially useful and withal highly entertaining. The idea of a combination of toasts and stories (two-books-in-one) is attractive. Cover design in colors from appropriate drawing.

THE LAW OF THE NEW THOUGHT

A Study of Fundamental Principles and Their Application

By William Walker Atkinson

"This book takes up the deep questions of Man—his relation to the Universe—his relation to the Supreme Power—his spiritual unfoldment and growth—his latent powers —his destiny—his possibilities. It tells of man's spiritual, mental and psychic powers and their development. It tells of the Something Within. It tells of the growth of consciousness—from mere sensation to Cosmic Knowing. It tells of the broader and greater concept of the Universal Presence—God. It tells of the manifestation of the Supreme Wisdom, Power and Presence. It tells of the Oneness of All—that key to the vexed questions of Life, Philosophy and Religion.

Bound in purple silk cloth with gold lettering, 6 x 9 inches, $1.00.

NUGGETS OF THE NEW THOUGHT

SEVERAL THINGS THAT HAVE HELPED PEOPLE

By William Walker Atkinson

A collection of some of the most famous writings of this famous author, including his "Secret of the I Am," of which almost 100,000 copies have been sold singly, his equally famous "I Can and I Will," which is the keynote of New Thought philosophy, and his story of "Jerry and the Bear," perhaps the most widely popular of all his essays, having been copied and recopied in magazines and publications of every class.

"Nuggets" is perhaps the best "all-round" New Thought book published, having something for every mood and every stage of growth. It is good for the scoffer, good for the beginner, good for the adept. Men feel its practical inspiration—women treasure its beautiful lessons.

Size 6 x 9 inches, bound in purple silk cloth with gold lettering, $1.00.

THOUGHT VIBRATION

Or the Law of Attraction in the Thought World

By William Walker Atkinson

It's about the "mighty law that draws to us the things we desire or fear, that makes or mars our lives"; about "positive" and "negative" thought; about Active and Passive Mentation and "the attraction of The Absolute"; about mind-building and the conquest of the lesser self by the Real Self; about Will Power; about Fear-thought; about Worry, the offshoot of Fear; about asserting the Life Force and the laws of Mental Control; about our Subconscious Mentality; about Emotions; about eradicating undesirable states of feeling and how to develop new brain cells that will manifest along desirable lines; about Desire; about Energy and Invincible Determination; about the great people of the world; about the difference between the Slave of Circumstances and the Master of Circumstances; about Chance—which never was—and Law, which ever is; and about the Causeless Cause, which is back of all Law.

Bound in green silk cloth with gold lettering, $1.00.

MEMORY CULTURE

The Science of Observing, Remembering and Recalling

By William Walker Atkinson

This work treats of a rational, natural, easily acquired system of developing the faculties of observation and memory, depending upon no tricks, catch words, "patent methods," etc., but proceeding to gradually develop the faculties instead of loading down the memory with "methods." It points out the way by which the memory in general as well as the special memories of places, faces, names, dates, prices, etc., may be developed. This book also explains and gives instruction in the great Hindu system of memorizing, whereby the Orientals memorize their sacred teachings and philosophies. Numerous examples and anecdotes illustrating the principles enunciated are given, and the lessons are accompanied with exercises calculated to materially strengthen and develop the mental faculties of observation, remembrance and recollection.

Silk cloth, purple and gold, $1.00.

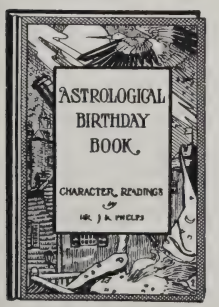
ASTROLOGICAL BIRTHDAY BOOK



By Dr. J. R. Phelps

A widespread interest attaches to this new publication, which may well be designated as psychological. Astrology, as it pertains to birthday readings and delineations of character, has taken on a large following. Dr. Phelps has a plausible style, which carries conviction. There is a reading for each day of the year, in which personal characteristics and natural tendencies are studiously explained, and with subtle variation as to sex. Additional to the birthday readings are departments which include treatises on the subject of diseases common to the different signs of the Zodiac; space for birthday signatures, which is useful in reading the horoscopes of friends and relatives, a pursuit which leads to sensational developments and disclosures.

Printed on India tint paper, with border designs in sepia on every page, the book is one that will please the most fastidious. Cloth, size 8 x 5½ inches, $1.00.

Mrs. Thrale was a most acute observer, and her reminiscences are full of amusing anecdotes and interesting sidelights on Johnson and his friends. THESE LETTERS OF APPRECIATION ARE OUT OF THE ORDINARY AND OUGHT TO BE READ

Rev. Francis J. Finn, S.J., author of "Tom Playfair," etc.

"It is indeed a prayer-book that is different. It takes prayer and meditation into the bracing air and sweet sunshine of God. Happiness and holiness are brought together and shown to be fit partners for each other. May God speed your little volume far and wide—a fit messenger of peace and good will to all it may reach."

Very Rev. Canon Sheehan, author of "My New Curate," etc.

"I have looked through it with much interest as an entirely new experiment in devotional literature. The design of the author to utilize the thoughts of the world's greatest minds in throwing a little sunlight along the darker ways of this our earthly life seems to me worthy of all praise and encouragement."

Rev. Robert Hugh Benson, author of "By What Authority," etc.

"I should like to say how much the spirit and the plan of it have impressed me. The book seems to me an admirable illustration of the words, 'My yoke is sweet, and My burden light.'"

Rev. John J. Wynne, S.J., editor of the "America," etc.

"I congratulate you on being the only one who has done so successfully what every one would have liked to do. The chief merit of 'My Prayer-Book' is that it contains nothing strange or difficult, exaggerated or extravagant, but only such homely things as every one thinks of and tries to formulate. You have formulated them admirably."

Rev. David Bearne, S.J., author of "Melor of the Silver Hand," etc.

"In this admirable prayer-book which Father Lasance has given to the faithful, poor, frail, struggling human nature is not only encouraged but strongly fortified in its daily warfare with the powers of evil. As a manual of prayer it is full and complete; but then it is much more than a manual of prayer. It is a compendium of spiritual direction; it is a volume of short and pointed meditations; it is a guide-book to the unlearned in holy things; it is a lamp burning with a strong clear flame for the use of all pilgrims of the night of this world's darkness."

HAPPINESS IN GOODNESS

Reflections, Counsels, Prayers, and Devotions

What is said of "My Prayer-Book"

Rev. John Talbot Smith, LL.D., author of "His Honor, the Mayor," etc.

"A sensible and delightful book of thought and prayer for the Christian people, which should find its way into every parish and into the hearts of priests and laity. Its note of cheerfulness is beautiful."

Rev. Edwin Drury, author of "What the Church Teaches," etc.

"A distinctive feature is its harmony with present-day tone of thought and feeling; for even in devotion, current atmosphere tempers expression to keep every-day life in touch with faith. The more extensively 'My Prayer-Book' is used the more it will contribute to promote piety."

Very Rev. Father Chrysostom, O.F.M., Provincial.

"The book, by its pointed counsels, earnest reflections, and beautifully simple and practical prayers, suggestive of meditation, will surely lead many to goodness, affording them happiness, true joy, and peace of heart."

Rev. George E. Quin, S.J., author of "The Boy-Saver's Guide."

"Joy in the divine service is fostered from the introductory pages, which offer an encouragingly wide view as to the number of the saved, to the final pages, where one finds a most consoling preparation for death's call."

Very Rev. Ferreol Girardey, C.SS.R., author of "Mission Book for the Married," etc.

"A prayer-book replete with good, practical lessons, adapted to make those who use it cheerful and contented with their lot, lovers of prayer, and frequenters of the sacraments."

Rev. Henry A. Brann, D.D., author of "Life of Archbishop Hughes," etc.

"I admire it very much for its correctness, completeness, and its good English. It is an excellent book, and I think this will be the general verdict of those who use it."

MY PRAYER-BOOK

HAPPINESS IN GOODNESS

Reflections, Counsels, Prayers, and Devotions

By REV. F. X. LASANCE

16mo. Size, 5⅝ x 4 inches. 664 pages

Everybody praises it

Hon. Maurice F. Egan, U. S. Minister to Denmark.

"The ideal prayer-book. . . . 'The examination of conscience' is on a sane and reasonable basis—not made for anchorites of the desert or criminals, who are only softened by an occasional dose of brimstone and thunder. It is a book that joins religion with every-day life. I could write a column in praise of it."

Hon. Victor J. Dowling, Judge of the Supreme Court of New York.

"It breathes a spirit of cheerfulness, of optimism, of brotherly love, which is both refreshing and encouraging."

Marion Ames Taggart, author of "King Hal," etc.

"Sanctifies secularity, the best antidote for the prevailing tendency to secularize religion. It proves by saint and sage that happiness and virtue are synonymous. It rings with an appeal to be a man, and shows that only the man of God deserves the title. 'My Prayer-Book' is a literary book wholly out of the ordinary."

Mary T. Waggaman, author of "Corinne's Vow," etc.

"Its tone of cheer and courage, its spirit of hope and joy, seem to me both helpful and inspiring."

Anna T. Sadlier, author of "Master Gerard," etc.

"Father Lasance has succeeded in sending forth the rays of light, helping the reader to rejoice in the Lord."

Mary E. Mannix, author of "Patron Saints," etc.

"Does not contain a dry, dull, or superfluous page. It is an epitome of all that is necessary to perfection in the daily life of the Christian."

Grace Keon, author of "The Ruler of the Kingdom," etc.

"I think it is a necessity to every Catholic. It makes one realize that the voluntary yielding to unhappiness is ingratitude. It is an excellent book for one inclined to take a melancholy view of things. One's thoughts are elevated instantly to the heights of God's greatness."

THE PLAN

"My Prayer-Book" aims to point out the brighter side of life—the silver lining to the clouds o'erhead—the sunshine that follows the rain—the sweet little wild-flowers that grow by the wayside amid thorns and briars.

From Introduction by G. Frederick Wright

It is fortunate for all classes of readers that the gifted author has left so finished and complete a record of the faith from which such a life has sprung. Educated in both College and Seminary at Oberlin during the days of Finney, Morgan and Fairchild, President Merrell has preserved the spirit of those great leaders in theological thought, and with marked success has adjusted the form of their teaching to the wants of the present generation. The book needs but to be known to be fully appreciated and to exert a marked influence for good in these times of unrest.

Essays in Pentateuchal Criticism

By HAROLD M. WIENER, M.A., LL.B.
OF LINCOLN'S INN, BARRISTER-AT-LAW
Author of "Studies in Biblical Law"

225 pages, 8vo, Cloth. $1.50 Postpaid

"The book is unusually attractive in appearance and make-up. The print is clear, the margins wide, and an index of passages and other subjects is included. In fine, we may characterize Mr. Wiener's work as a good summary of the arguments for the integrity and unity of the Mosaic Books and a complete setting aside of the counter theories maintained by the Old Testament critics."—The Living Church.

". . . . we read these pages with delight. They add to the many indications of brighter days in store for genuine Biblical study."

". . . . he maintains that the neglect of textual criticism in the case of the Pentateuch has led to the wide acceptance of Astruc's inaccurate clue from the use of the Divine appellations in the book of Genesis. He has shown in the pages before us—to our conviction—that there exists material to prove that in an enormous number of instances the Massoretic text is quite unreliable in regard to these appellations. Down tumble, then, the card-built theories which so confidently apportion this section to J, that to E, the other to P. With gladness let us consign the fallen piles of guesses to dust-bin!"

"The book is a most important contribution to the criticism of the Pentateuch, and a straight challenge to the School of Wellhausen. . . ."

"The last chapter consists of a long paper demolishing the great Wellhausen's Prolegomena. There is an index to the principal passages referred to, and also a good subject-index. The book is well written, well printed and published."—The Tablet (London).

FIFTH EDITION JUST READY

The Practice of Medicine

With Special Reference to Diagnosis and Treatment

By JAMES TYSON, M. D.

Professor of Medicine in the University of Pennsylvania and Physician to the Hospital of the University; Physician to the Pennsylvania Hospital; Consulting Physician to the Rush Hospital for Consumptives and Allied Diseases, etc.

INCLUDING AN ILLUSTRATED ARTICLE OF 94 PAGES ON

ANIMAL PARASITES

AND THE CONDITIONS CAUSED BY THEM

By ALLEN J. SMITH, M. D.

Professor of Pathology in the University of Pennsylvania

The application of the results of pure science to the practical and immediate demands of Diagnosis and Treatment is a valuable feature of this work.

Its Plain, outspoken statement of facts established leaves no question in the mind of the reader as to the author's convictions.

Its caution of methods not sufficiently tested, and its deference to the work of others, marks the carefulness and scholarship of an author, an investigator, and a worker in original fields.

Its treatment of subjects, both of great and of lesser importance, evidences the painstaking attention and the authority of well-weighed experience which have ever characterized Dr. Tyson's work.

For the thoroughness of the text, its style, its recognition of actual needs, the volume is recommended to the practicing physician, the teacher, the student, as the leading work in this field of greatest importance.

REVIEWS OF PREVIOUS EDITIONS:

"This excellent text-book on the Practice of Medicine has reached its fourth edition. In preparing this edition for the press Dr. Tyson has made those alterations in the text which the progress of knowledge demands. The most significant change is a revision of the section on animal parasites by Dr. Allen J. Smith. The illustrations have been improved and amplified, and various minor changes have also been made. The book in general maintains the standard of excellence with which we have become familiar, and will continue to hold its place as one of the recognized best text-books on general medicine."—Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

"It is a great pleasure to review such an excellent text-book, which presents to the students so clearly a summary of our knowledge of disease."—Bulletin of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore.

"Since the first edition of this work saw the light it has made for itself an assured place in the literature of medicine comparable to that held by Niemeyer or Bristow a quarter of a century ago, and for the book itself little more remains to be said.

"In the present edition the author tells us the section dealing with the infectious diseases has been subjected to special scrutiny and revision, the additions and alterations here being so numerous as to necessitate a resetting of this entire portion of the work.

"The sections dealing with pathology, symptomatology, and diagnosis are throughout classical in their completeness and accuracy of description."—Medical Record, New York.

THIRD EDITION

Brubaker's Text-book of PHYSIOLOGY

A TEXT-BOOK OF HUMAN PHYSIOLOGY, INCLUDING A SECTION ON PHYSIOLOGICAL APPARATUS.

By ALBERT P. BRUBAKER, A. M., M. D.,

Professor of Physiology and Medical Jurisprudence in the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia
Professor of Physiology in the Pennsylvania College of Dental Surgery;
author of "A Compend of Physiology," etc.

This New Edition has been very thoroughly Revised and in parts Rewrittten.

With Colored Plates and 383 other Illustrations.
Octavo, xii+752 Pages. Cloth, $3.00.

THE object in view in the preparation of this volume was the selection and presentation of the more important facts of physiology, in a form which it is believed will be helpful to students and to practitioners of medicine. Inasmuch as the majority of students in a medical college are preparing for the practical duties of professional life, such facts have been selected as will not only elucidate the normal functions of the tissues and organs of the body, but which will be of assistance in understanding their abnormal manifestations as they present themselves in hospital and private work. Both in the selection of facts and in the method of presentation the author has been guided by an experience gained during twenty years of active teaching. For those who do not use a special book for laboratory work an appendix has been added of some essential forms of apparatus and the purposes for which they are intended.

From The New York Medical Record:

"The new views of digestion brought to light by Pavlov, Cannon, and others are noted, and new matter on the nervous mechanism of the heart and on vision has been introduced. The work as it is now improved compares most favorably with other physiological text-books, and can be recommended to students as a safe and satisfactory guide."

From The Montreal Medical Journal:

"It is so well balanced and so wisely written throughout, that we can give it our heartiest support and good wishes."

From The London Lancet:

"The facts are clearly stated, the proportionate space given to each section is reasonable, the student is not troubled with a diversity of opinions, whilst a dogmatic style is adopted throughout."

From The Boston Medical and Surgical Journal:

"Professor Brubaker brings to the preparation of this book the experience of twenty years of teaching, and he shows the value of the experience in his emphasis on the essentials of human physiology and in the clearness and directness of his presentation."

It is a safe, accurate, eminently practical and strictly modern treatise, well and clearly written by a man of large experience and most excellent judgment.  For the Practitioner: Discussion of the Diseases of the Blood and of the Anemias of Childhood, and Chapters on General Hematology, or the account of the blood changes in over 70 general diseases and their true value in diagnosis and prognosis. For the Laboratory Worker and the Student: Chapters on the Normal and Pathological Histology of the Blood, and Specific Directions for Examining the Blood by Modern Clinical Methods.

"The author's aim has been to recount the salient facts of hæmatology as they are understood at the present time, to correlate certain of these facts with familiar pictures of disease, and to apply them to medical and surgical diagnosis. When new measures of clinical diagnosis are introduced there is often a great tendency to exaggerate their power and scope. Dr. DaCosta, however, has simply endeavored to interpret the 'blood report' according to its true value as a clinical sign, neither exploiting it as a panacea for every diagnostic ill nor belittling it because of its failure to give the sought-for clue in every instance. The book gains in value by the adoption of this form of precedure; it gives a confidence to the author's conclusions which a more exaggerated tone would fail to do. Throughout the work a minimum amount of theoretical discussion has been introduced, so that the practical side of the subject is paramount."—The Lancet, London.

"Dr. Gould has conceived with the brain of a master-thinker and inscribed with the pen of a ready writer volumes of extreme readability, interest and importance; on the whole, wise in tone, always forceful, usually graceful, often elevated in diction. The author has emphasized old and unappreciated truth; he has also added to the sum of truth. It is a work well worth the doing; a work certainly not inferior to the invention of a new staining fluid, the synthesis of a new hypnotic drug or the description of a new symptom-complex; a work of which the true value will become more apparent as the years increase."—Science.

These works form a complete, modern treatise on Diseases of the Digestive Tract. The subject is covered thoroughly, systematically, and accurately, by an author of well-known reputation and ability. The results of recent investigations, by which so much progress has been made in the pathology, diagnosis, and medical and surgical treatment of disorders of the digestive tract, make their issue at this time of particular importance. They are handsomely illustrated, are exhaustive, and are written for the general practitioner, taking into special consideration American habits of living, diet, and climate. Very gratifying to students of these works will be the detailed directions as to METHODS OF TREATMENT, especially in regard to the diet in the various diseases considered, and which in gastro-intestinal affections is the key-note to effective prophylaxis and to successful treatment. Each of the three volumes is provided with two complete indexes. one of subjects treated in the work, the other of authors from whose writings quotations have been taken. These indexes are augmented, in turn, by an exhaustive series of bibliographical references and acknowledgments which follow many of the more important chapters.

"Especial attention is given in this book, which we believe is the first American book on the subject, to the diseases peculiar to the tropical lands under the flag of the United States. Credit is given to American physicians for the large amount of work which they have done in studying them. The subject of tropical medicine is of interest to all physicians who wish to keep abreast of the progress of medicine, for it is in this field that many of the most recent and most interesting discoveries have been made. Moreover, it is of interest, for certain of these diseases are likely at any time to be brought to our own shores and those living in the large seaports must be on the watch for such importations. Even in the center of our continent we have seen several of these, to us, rare diseases, among sailors, soldiers and the families of missionaries. * * * The book is clearly and simply written and is interesting, and its teaching is practical."—Journal of the American Medical Association.

For the first time in the history of the book American anatomists have been asked to contribute original articles and to rewrite and revise sections. The book has thus become international in character; of wider view; and, of greater usefulness to all English-speaking students.

The illustrations for this new edition have been drawn, selected and prepared with consideration and care. The publishers, recognizing that this is one of the most important features of the book, have co-operated with the editors and contributors in an effort (First) to exclude those appearing in former editions, which, though of great excellence, did not entirely serve their purpose; (Second) to include new pictures not only to replace the old, but to more thoroughly illustrate the text and increase its teaching value.

Containing 1025 Illustrations of which 319 are in Colors.

One Handsome Octavo Volume. Cloth, $6.00; Sheep or Half Morocco, $7.00.

Or in Five Parts as follows, each part sold separately:

From The Journal of the American Medical Association:

"The new edition must be welcomed as one of the most valuable text-books on this important subject."

From The New York Medical Journal:

"Probably the most striking feature of the work is the number, excellence and value of the illustrations and the freedom with which colored plates have been used in the body of the text."

Including Special Therapeutics of Diseases and Symptoms, the Physiological Action of Drugs. The Modern Materia Medica, Official and Practical Pharmacy, Minute Directions for Prescription Writing, Incompatibility, etc., also the Antidotal and Antagonistic Treatment of Poisoning and over 650 Prescriptions and Formulæ. A comparison of the Index of this edition of Potter with the Indexes of three other prominent works covering the same subjects, showed that Potter's book indexes 3683 drugs, poisons, etc., the first compared book, 1347, the second, 1300, the third 1239,—Potter thus exceeding by 2336 subjects the nearest competing book! This comparison demonstrates the broad inclusion of essential matter in Potter's book, and proves its great superiority as a reference work.

INTRODUCTION.—Definition, Scope and Explanation of such terms as Drugs, Pharmacology. Pharmacy, Materia Medica, Therapeutics, etc. Constituents of Organic Drugs, Classification of Medicines, Administration of Medicines, Dosage. The section on classification is particularly to be commended to students who wish to obtain a concise yet exhaustive knowledge of this very important subject and to physicians who desire to refer to a compendious yet brief article on the physiological action of various groups of agents.

PART I.—MATERIA MEDICA and THERAPEUTICS, the agents being arranged in alphabetical order, with the synonyms of each first; followed by their origin and description, preparations and compounds, official and unofficial, physiological action, antagonists and incompatibles, and lastly their Therapeutics. This section includes articles on Antitoxins and Toxins.

PART II.—PHARMACY AND PRESCRIPTION WRITING. Written more especially for the use of students and physicians. It includes—Weights and Measures, English and the Metric Systems. Specific Gravity and Volume. Prescriptions—Their principles and combinations; proper methods of writing them; abbreviations used, etc. Incompatibility, Pharmaceutical and Therapeutical. Extemporaneous Pharmacy; Official Pharmacy, Pharmaceutical Preparations, etc.

PART III.—SPECIAL THERAPEUTICS, an alphabetical List of Diseases—a real INDEX OF DISEASES consisting of 267 pages, giving the drugs that have been found serviceable in each disease, and the authority recommending the use of each,—a very important feature, as it gives an authoritative character to the book that is unusual in works on Therapeutics, and displays an immense amount of research on the part of the author. Upwards of 650 prescriptions are given, many being over the names of eminent men. This section includes articles on Poisoning, Temperature in Disease, Clinical Examination of Urine, etc.

THE APPENDIX contains lists of Latin words, phrases and abbreviations, with their English equivalents, used in Prescriptions; Genitive Case Endings, etc.; Formulæ for Hypodermic Injections; Tables of Differential Diagnosis; Table showing the number of drops in a fluidrachm of various liquids and the weight of one fluidrachm in grains, and a table for converting apothecaries' weights and measures into grams. Pasted inside the front and back covers are useful tables of Equivalents of Weights and Measures and Prescription Doses and Quantities.

THE INDEX consists of 37 double-column pages, and is most minute in each detail; cross-references being avoided as far as possible. The common as well as the scientific terms are given in many instances in order to meet the requirements of quick reference.

In time it dates back to Charles I and Cromwell, to Cavalier and Roundhead, but in method and quality of thought it belongs with Stevenson and Hewlett, beside whose works it takes a worthy place. Its keen, crisp and clever pages are a delight, a wonder of craftsmanship, a token of the accomplishment of our age. "Of those writing historical fiction, Mr. Bailey is now easily first. Colonel Greatheart exemplifies him as a born romancer."—H. B. Marriott-Watson in London Daily Chronicle.

Baum's American Fairy Tales.

With sixteen full-page pictures in color by George Kerr. Uniform with "The Wizard of Oz." 8vo, cloth $1.25

Hans Christian Andersen and the Brothers Grimm have written the classic fairy tales of the old world. L. Frank Baum writes them for America. Fairies in Chicago? Why not? The idea is audacious and captivating. For every boy and girl this is a dear delicious book of pure fun, rare tales and bully pictures.

Of this delightful series the Albany Times-Union says: "There is positively no living writer of fairy tales who comes quite so near the children's hearts as L. Frank Baum. His books are down-to-date fairy stories, very different from those that pleased past generations; their illustrations are by talented and popular artists; many of the type pages are printed in two gay colors, and in every way they are designed to open wide the eyes of little people in astonishment and intense delight. They deserve limitless praise."

BEGBIE. The Fall of the Curtain.

By Harold Begbie. Frontispiece by C. Allan Gilbert. 12mo, cloth. Postage 12c, net, $1.25

The purpose of this brilliant and penetrating story of modern English life is to show that a human being, well brought-up, carefully trained in the outward observances of religion, with a keen intellectual perception of the difference between right and wrong, may still not have goodness, and that selfish ambition may easily become the dominating force in such a character. So the book may be called a purpose novel, but in reading it one no more thinks of applying so discredited an epithet to it than one would think of applying it to "Vanity Fair." The author possesses an admirable style, clear, unaffected, strong.

Publications of The Bobbs-Merrill Company

BLAKE. Hearts' Haven.

By Katharine Evans Blake. Illustrated by E. M. Ashe. 12mo, cloth $1.50

The author of this beautiful story maintains that the love of a man for a maid and the love of a parent for a child are the dominant motives of life, surviving the mutations of years, stronger than heredity, stronger than loyalty to a religious leader, never to be obliterated, even by fanaticism, and proving ultimately irresistible to the sane heart. The setting for the development of this poignant truth is the Rappite community of celibates at New Harmony in early Indiana. Seldom, indeed, have the conquering impulses of young love and the overriding instincts of parenthood been expressed with such searching tenderness and such intimate reality.

The Stuff of a Man.

With frontispiece in colors by Will Grefé. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A drama of the corn lands of southern Indiana in the "Pocket" region bounded by the Ohio. The story has the charm of leisurely atmosphere, of love old-fashioned in its quality, of gossipy humor, and with these qualities is combined a splended and most impressive handling of a great problem. "It is not often," says the Chicago Record-Herald, "that a novel proves so telling, so readable, so comprehensive, so true." "A novel well worth while, both as a piece of literature and a study of life," says Dr. Richard Burton, in The Bellman.

BONNER. Tomorrow's Tangle.

By Geraldine Bonner. Illustrated by Arthur I. Keller. 12mo, cloth $1.50

A tale of California in the gold days of '49 and after; a story of desert, mine and varicolored San Francisco, of bonanza kings and bonanza outcasts, of a fight for a fortune and a superb renunciation; a romance of adventure and enterprise; more than all this, a romance of the conscience and the heart. The New York Press says: "Since Bret Harte there has been no story of the gold days that can compare with this." And the Nashville American comments: "The story is full of life, and its characters are as clearly cut as portraits in steel. It is an American story, too, and that is another claim to the reader's attention."

The Pioneer.

Illustrated by Harrison Fisher, the frontispiece in color. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

Miss Bonner's second novel of life in the Far West has all the many good qualities of the first—the warm-hearted sympathy, the picturesqueness and the stirring action—with a new depth of feeling and sureness of touch. The atmosphere of time and place (California and Nevada in the bonanza silver days) is rendered splendidly. But atmosphere and style mean little to the reader compared with the engrossing, passionate story of Colonel Jim Parrish and how he paid the debt of love.

Rich Men's Children.

Illustrated by C. M. Relyea. 12mo, cloth $1.50

The final story in Miss Bonner's great trilogy of California romances reveals the steady march of her fine and confident talent. It is as dramatic as Tomorrow's Tangle. It is bathed in the same warm human emotion that throbbed in the pages of The Pioneer. But, strong and sweeping, large and sure, vivid and compelling, frank and unconventional, Rich Men's Children is better and greater than its predecessors. The plot, which deals with the conflicts of two generations and the bold passions of the Far West, takes hold instantly with a firm clutch, and the movement is steadily maintained throughout toward a vigorous climax.

BURGESS. The White Cat.

By Gelett Burgess. Illustrated by Will Grefé. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

An odd, original and most unusual novel, stamped with the author's genius for whimsical sentiment, piquant adventure and psychological romance. The plot turns on dual personality, which is now a phenomenon familiarly known to science, but which, prior to Mr. Burgess, has never yielded up its full measure of fictional value.

The Heart Line.

Illustrated by Lester Ralph. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A story of Bohemian life in San Francisco before the disaster, presented with mirror-like accuracy. The author has staged his drama to perfection, filled his stage with men and women who would fascinate any audience, and worked out an ingeniously contrived plot to an amazing climax, the fate of the chief characters winding about through the lives of fake spiritualists, palmists, and quacks of various kinds. Mr. Burgess's undoubted genius is everywhere manifest.

"Lazarre is no less a person than the Dauphin, Louis XVII, of France, and a right royal hero he makes. A prince, who, for the sake of his lady, scorns perils in two hemispheres, facing the wrath of kings in Europe and the bullets of savages in America; who at last spurns a kingdom that he may wed her freely—here is one to redeem the sins of even those who 'never learn and never forget'."—Philadelphia North American.

CHAMBERLAIN. The Coast of Chance.

By Esther and Lucia Chamberlain. Illustrated by Clarence F. Underwood. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A sapphire ring, the luck of the English house of Crew, has been stolen while on private exhibition in San Francisco. It then comes into the possession of a wealthy society girl. In spite of herself, and in spite of her fiancé, she falls in love with a man whom she knows to be the thief—Robert Kerr, a character among the most striking in fiction. It is an intensely interesting novel of the big, red game of life, played to the ultimate limit with masculine bravado and feminine finesse. Says the New York Times Saturday Review: "It is new, vital, well-written, and so crisp yet smooth of motion that it carries the most unwilling reader pell-mell to the finish. And why does it end so soon?"

The Other Side of the Door.

By Lucia Chamberlain, joint author with Esther Chamberlain of The Coast of Chance. Illustrated by Herman Pfeifer. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

In the Other Side of the Door a curious series of startling events in old San Francisco—a murder, a trial and an escape—are viewed through the eager eyes of a charming and impressionable girl. And the biting intensity of an exciting plot is not divorced from subtlety of characterization and charm of style. "The Other Side of the Door is modern romance at its best. The young girl who here tells her wonderful experience is something charming and fresh in the way of a heroine."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

CHAMBERLAIN.—Continued.—Son of The Wind.

Illustrated by Herman Pfeifer. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

Son of The Wind is at once a tale of mystery, a love romance and a poetic idyl. It is all these things and at the same time it is a perfect literary unit. The author has never succeeded more completely in accomplishing her purpose. In the steps and stages of its development the story is admirably told. Interest is immediately incited by the strange encounter between the young horse-breaker and the Man on the Road. With puzzled brows the reader follows Francis Carron into the high solitudes as he rides on to Janfer's Folly. Why he goes is most dramatically withheld, but of the importance of the quest there can be no doubt.

CHENEY. The Challenge.

By Warren Cheney. Illustrated by N. C. Wyeth. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A story of Alaska and of the Russian settlers who made possible the development of the land of the Great White Silence. The theme and setting are new to fiction, and Mr. Cheney has handled both so searchingly that he may well be called the American Turgenieff. Primitive passions, the thrill of life in a new land, the inexorable penalty of the acquirement of the knowledge of good and evil,—all these forces make The Challenge a notable book.

His Wife.

With a frontispiece by Frank E. Schoonover. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

On the publication of The Challenge Mr. Cheney was hailed as the American Turgenief. His Wife places the proud title beyond dispute. It is a powerful drama of human passions working in the silent immensity of Alaskan snows. The central characters, a man and a woman of heroic mold, have an almost somber intensity. But there is humor as well as strength, and happiness after atonement.

CHESTER. The Making of Bobby Burnit.

By George Randolph Chester. Illustrated by James Montgomery Flagg and F. R. Gruger. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

When his shrewd old father left him three millions under eccentric conditions, with a trustee who had a dimple in her chin, what happened to Bobby was a plenty. He burned it all right, did Bobby, while gathering experience in large and elegant bunches. But he got even. And he made good. And there was Agnes, the dimpled trustee, waiting for him in the end. And there is the reader, left mighty cheerful and happy, and thanking his lucky star for this bully book.

The Cash Intrigue.

By George Randolph Chester, author of The Making of Bobby Burnit. Illustrated by M. Leone Bracker. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

Mr. Chester has seized with vigor upon the dream of the utmost possible reach of American financial power, turned it to the uses of romance, and realized it through characters of tremendous energy, heroic passions and gigantic ambitions. It is the tale of the man who cornered the cash of the country. "This fantastic story is built on large lines; it is spectacular in effect, a moving panorama, relentless, insatiable."—Pittsburg Post.

Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford.

Illustrated by F. R. Gruger and Henry Raleigh. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

In Wallingford, Mr. Chester has created a genius. He is a genius of chicanery, to be sure, but still a genius. In his own field, Wallingford carries his native power to its utmost reach. Does any genius do more? He is a marvel of ingenuity, a wizard of wily ways. He leaves no talents of his own tied in a napkin, and he deftly removes the talents from his neighbors. The Law never catches him. He is too nimble for the law.

The Early Bird.

Illustrated by Arthur William Brown. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

An ingenious, amiable, blithe, brisk, breezy book, with emphasis on the two practical aims in life: getting on in the world and finding the right person to get on with. The reader's interest is caught up and carried lightly, rapidly forward from incident to incident in a most agreeable fashion with surprises at every turn. Sam Turner, the hero, is a sudden kind of chap, and this story of his exceedingly energetic vacation is irresistible.

CHESTER.—Continued.—Young Wallingford.

Illustrated by F. R. Gruger and Henry Raleigh. 12mo, cloth $1.50

Everyone knows Wallingford. Everyone welcomes these new adventures in his active career. Latest to be written, they fall in sequence before the episodes recounted in GET-RICH-QUICK WALLINGFORD. Naturally there is nothing of the innocence of youth about them. They are the early exciting stages in the development of a master of the art of left-handed promotion, the inventor of a thousand schemes to get something for nothing, and get it in a hurry.

CLARK. The Legionaries.

By Henry Scott Clark. Illustrated by H. McCormick. 12mo, cloth..... $1.50

The scene of this remarkable and artistic novel is laid in Kentucky and Indiana, and the backbone of the story is the great raid of the intrepid Morgan—one of the most romantic and reckless pieces of adventure ever attempted in the history of the world. Mr. Clark's description of the "Ride of the Three Thousand" is a piece of literature that deserves to live; "as fine in its way," says the Memphis Commercial Appeal, "as the chariot race in 'Ben-Hur.'"

CLARK. Loaded Dice.

By Ellery H. Clark. Illustrated by F. Graham Cootes. 12mo, cloth..... $1.50

The story of a man who decides that life and love are gambles and immortality the biggest gamble of all. He plays the big red game against Fate without thought of the reckoning. "Loaded Dice" abounds in excitement and in scenes of thrilling pleasure. But more stirring still is the masterful resolution with which the author marches straight forward to his astounding climax. It breaks upon the reader with overflowing effect.

The Carleton Case.

Illustrated by George Brehm. 12mo, cloth..... $1.50

This is a story of Mr. Jack Carleton, clubman, capitalist, an all round good fellow, who likes everybody in the world, except his uncle, Henry Carleton, and who in turn is loved by all who know him with the same exception repeated. Around these two men and their many interests, Mr. Clark has woven a story of tremendous interest. Dramatic, tense, powerful, it pictures a certain phase of modern life that lends itself admirably to the uses of the novelist.

Dick Randall, The Young Athlete.

How Dick Randall proved himself the champion of Fenton Academy, is a story to quicken the pulses of any healthy boy.

The truth is that only a woman of great sensibility can write stories for children as they should be written—as, in fact, Miss Culbertson has written them. The book should be one of the most substantial successes of the season." And Uncle Remus should know if any one.

There is nothing didactic or argumentative about the tone of the book. The original characters of Janie Bell, Dinah and Rosabell, all coming in again, have a hearty welcome.

Little Red White and Blue.

Illustrated by Virginia Keep. Quarto, cloth, inlay cover in colors.....$1.25

This is the very prettiest of stories for little girls. It has the charm of all Mrs. Gates' books,—the charm of easy reading, fun that children can comprehend, play that all children enjoy, and a constant appeal to the things that children naturally prefer. The story is woven around the strange experience of a little girl born at an army post on the frontier, with two chapters at the end about her life in Washington after her father has been transferred. The book is full of patriotic sentiment and devotion to the flag.

The Live Dolls' Play Days.

Rival camps have sprung up among the little girls, some of whom remain faithful to the doll, while others have wavered in their affection and fallen under the spell of the Teddy Bear. When dolls and bears come to life, there is "something doing." The dolls finally win the day. The story will wholly captivate every little girl.

The April Fool Doll.

Illustrated by Virginia Keep. Quarto, cloth, inlay cover in colors.....$1.25

This new book in the famous Doll Series is fully up to the standard of its predecessors. And that means that it will captivate every little girl in all this broad land. Each party is more delightful and mysterious than its predecessor.

Sunshine Annie.

Illustrated by Fanny Y. Cory. Square 12mo, cloth.....$1.25

The heroine of this charming story is in some way related to James Whitcomb Riley's "Orphant Annie," and she does her little kinswoman great credit. Sunshine Annie has recently been taken from an orphan asylum and been given a place as helper in the doll department of a large toy store. Remembering her own experience in the orphan's home, she calls all her dolls orphans and tries to get them adopted; that is, bought by kindly customers. The story is of a young girl, taught to believe in the old Greek myths, who revenges a wrong done to her with life-long persecution. Finally, however, she comes to believe that retribution for wrong-doing belongs to God, and is forced to realize that on earth peace and happiness can be obtained only by forgiving one another's sins. The book shows the same love and sympathy for the many moods of nature that characterize "The Redemption of David Corson." "Dr. Goss' splendid powers have been demonstrated afresh. His new book is strong enough, big enough, suggestive and informing enough, to make a reputation for any one."—The Living Church.

Unlike many mystery stories, "The Filigree Ball" is not disappointing at the end.

The Millionaire Baby.

Illustrated by A. I. Keller. 12mo, cloth $1.50

A detective story with a new tangle. A baby, heiress to an immense fortune, is kidnapped and disappears from the face of the earth. The offer of a large reward attracts a detective, who passes through a series of weird experiences in his endeavor to restore the baby to her parents. Undoubtedly this is one of the most original among modern romances that explore the hidden ways of the heart. "It is intense, fascinating, mystifying and plausible," says The Chicago News. "The unique position of the author in the field of mystery fiction is finally established."

The Woman in the Alcove.

Illustrated by Arthur I. Keller. 12mo, cloth $1.50

The mystery story as developed by Anna Katharine Green reaches its highest point so far in "The Woman in the Alcove." The mysterious death of a woman whose personality is in itself mysterious involves a series of complications in which all clews lead to one end; all suspicion points to one man who seems inextricably caught in the meshes of a deadly web of circumstance. The startling incidents, the intricate ways and byways through which the reader travels, and the spirited love story unite to make this perhaps the most effective of its author's books.

The Mayor's Wife.

The theme of "The Torch" is whether the higher, finer purposes of education can be obtained by modern business methods in our colleges and universities. It is a novel of the faculty side of college life, with the student body serving only as a background. The scene is a western university under state control. "The Torch" is a vigorous, human story of life and love, and will especially appeal to every man who has been to college, who has a son to send to college, or who in any way is interested in, or related to, college life. "There are scenes in 'The Torch' that will be numbered among the few scenes in American fiction that are really a pleasure to remember."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

It is at once a pageant of one of the most momentous and picturesque periods in our American history and a love story of surpassing beauty and strength. The man and the woman who are its chief characters love each other with so great a love that only a master hand could justly paint them. Mr. Hough has done this with a completeness of success that thrills and enthralls.

The Singing Mouse.

With marginal illustrations by Mayo Bunker. Pocket, 12mo, cloth.....$1.00

The tiny creature that appears by a lonely man's hearthside each evening sings to him of dreams and hopes and longings, of his happy boyhood, of love, of beautiful fields and mountains. Subtle in suggestion, delicate in fancy, these little song-stories are more nearly poetry than prose. They have a distinct charm, the charm of a soft and melodious voice in gentle revery.

INGRAM. The Game and the Candle.

By Eleanor M. Ingram. Illustrated by P. D. Johnson. 12mo, cloth, jacket in full color and embossed gold.....$1.50

A book of golden deeds, of love that keeps faith through trial, and of allegiance steadfast in the midst of fiery adventure. The hero is a young American, who, to save his family from poverty, deliberately commits a felony. Then follow his capture, his imprisonment, his rescue by a Russian Grand Duke, each incident more tense and daring than its predecessor. Thenceforth the tale is fraught with the intrigue of a Russian court, with all the dangers that life suggests, and ever with the flowery fragrance of romance.

IRVING. The Legend of Sleepy Hollow.

By Washington Irving. Regular Edition. With over seventy illustrations, many in four colors, by Arthur I. Keller. 8vo, cloth, boxed.....$2.00

Leather.....$3.00

This famous love story of the Hudson, rendered a classic of all time by the matchless fancy and abounding humor of Irving, is here for the first time given a worthy setting. Mr. Keller has enriched it with the full measure of that art, at once graceful and highly dramatic, which has placed him in the foremost rank of American illustrators. He has caught the spirit of the master-humorist to a wonderful degree. From the grotesque figure of Ichabod Crane to the charm, piquancy and beauty of that darling maid, Katrina Van Tassel, his brush ranges with equal skill.

ISHAM. The Strollers.

By Frederic S. Isham. Illustrated by Harrison Fisher. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

The scenes are laid in that picturesque and interesting period of American life—the last of the stage coach days—the days of the strolling players. This is the record of a troupe making a circuit in the wilderness from New York to New Orleans, carrying one wagon-load of scenery and playing in town halls, taverns and barns. The characters are gifted, witty, lovable people who at once enlist the sympathy of the reader.

Under the Rose.

With illustrations in six colors by Howard Chandler Christy. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

In giving the quaint title to this book Mr. Isham says to the reader: "Now this is just between you and me. I am going to tell you a secret, and I want you to keep it to yourself." Then he leads you through a delightfully confusing network of paths and passages and introduces you to some very interesting people, while he serves his rare morsel of romance. All these people know that there is a secret, but they do not know that you know it, and so their innocent effort to straighten out the entanglements proves highly diverting. "Delicious fooling, lively wit, fine feeling, perfect taste are the qualities that make the charm of 'Under the Rose.' The atmosphere is so fraught with magic and fantasy that we forget it has no reality, and succumb to the author's spell."—Harper's Weekly.

Black Friday.

Illustrated by Harrison Fisher. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A dramatic novel of New York in the days of the famous "corner in gold," when Jay Gould, the noted financier and daring speculator, had the market almost in his grasp. The scene shifts at the end to Paris in the exciting time of the Commune. Mr. Isham's work shows a steady advance in power, in imaginative grasp, in the realization of atmosphere and in constructive skill. In every case his latest book is his best.

The Lady of the Mount.

Illustrated by Lester Ralph. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

The romantic story of the Black Seigneur, who held such power over the peasants along the coast of France in the days of the Revolution, of his love for the Governor's daughter, and how he wooed and won her. Adventure, high excitement, ardent love-making and intensely dramatic action mark the pages; it is a stirring tale of great charm and grace in telling. The New Haven Journal calls it "a charming story from beginning to end, proceeding with increasing interest and rising to a grand climax."

ISHAM.—Continued.—Half a Chance.

Illustrated by Herman Pfeifer. 12mo, cloth, illuminated jacket in full color and embossed gold.....$1.50

This is the story of a man who was unjustly convicted of a great crime. His courageous going back to find his honor in the place where he had lost it makes an inspiring appeal to all that is best in us. And if you inquire about the romantic incidents of the plot—the wreck of the convict ship, the rescue, the strange events on the desert isle, the return to England, the recognition, the man-hunt, the pursuit across fog-bound London, the splendid climax in which John Steele rights himself—they are thrilling enough to take your breath away!

The Social Bucaneer.

Illustrated by W. B. King. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

Once upon a time there was a benevolent old Chinese pirate who relieved the unduly rich in his neighborhood of their ill-gotten gains and distributed his booty among the common people. The debonair young man who figures in Mr. Isham's new romance had heard of this pirate, and, being of an adventurous turn of mind, he undertook to apply the same perilous form of charity or socialism in modern New York. He had an exciting time of it, a breathless, thrilling, rushing time, that called for all his powers of wit and every resource of cleverness.

JACKSON. The Day of Souls.

By Charles Tenney Jackson. Illustrated by Paul Meylan. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

"This may not be the great American novel, but it comes nearer to being that than any other novel that has yet been written. For those who would read of the realities of existence, who revel in the picturesque and dramatic, but who demand that the verity be not sacrificed to effect; for those with appreciation of how the best of us would have the substance rather than the shadow and fiction that has the joys and sorrows, and struggles and laughter of life rather than the sugar pills of romance,—for these The Day of Souls is the great book."—Chicago Daily Journal.

My Brother's Keeper.

Illustrated by Arthur William Brown. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A great problem is at the heart of the plot—the duty of America toward her new children borne to her shores in the great tide of immigration. In working out this problem a group of typical American men and women become involved in a drama of love and hate, tense and engrossing. As one strong situation follows another in emotional sequence, their inmost characters are laid bare. One singular personality, a figure unique in modern fiction, Rand, the social outlaw, stings them to truth by his own daring and unflinching candor. The men fight him. The women come to love him. And of them all he proves that he alone, in truest sense, is his brother's keeper.

JEFFERSON. See Forman.

JOHNSTON. The Jeweled Toad.

By Isabe M. Johnston. With innumerable pictures in color by W. W. Denslow. 8vo, cloth.....$1.50

The tale of Towsey, the washerwoman's daughter, who became queen of Wonderland by the aid of Bruin, Reynard, the grey wolves, the wild goose and the white owls, is most diverting. Mr. Denslow proves again that he is the king of comic art. It is the very jolliest of books for little men and maids.

JONES. Letters of Labor and Love.

By Samuel M. Jones. With portrait and an introduction by Brand Whitlock. 12mo, cloth.....Postage 12c, net, $1.00

The famous "Golden Rule" Mayor of Toledo wrote these letters to the men who worked in his machine shop. They are little masterpieces of helpful comment on the relation between employer and employed,—the words of a great, honest American who was desperately in earnest,—and they have the simplicity and directness which our men of action, when they have done the real heavy labor of the world, always get into their writings. The views of this remarkable man on our civilization are intensely interesting and highly important.

JULIAN. The Life of Joshua R. Giddings.

By George W. Julian. 8vo, cloth, 473 pages, gilt top.....$2.50

The only complete biography of the great Ohio Congressman and orator who rendered the anti-slavery movement effective by making it a political issue. The book is more than a record of the life of one man; it is an important contribution to the history of this country during the thirty years preceding the Civil War, given impartially and discriminatingly by the son-in-law of the man who is its central figure.

KELLY. With Hoops of Steel.

By Florence Finch Kelly. Illustrated in colors by Dan Smith. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A story which paints faithfully the life of the plains, and, as the San Francisco Chronicle says, "gives us three big, manly fellows, fine types of the cowboy at his best." Says the Denver Times: "It is not alone in the superb local coloring or the vivid character work that 'With Hoops of Steel' is a notable book. The incidents are admirably described and full of interest, and the movement of the story is continuous and vigorous."

KENTON. What Manner of Man.

By Edna Kenton. 12mo, cloth, gilt top.....$1.50

The story of an English artist, who, after a long search for a model for his picture of the death of a Christian martyr in the arena, finds her in Clodah of Rohan, a girl who has lived an unworldly life on a lonely Scottish island. He marries her to make her his model, and the conflict of his passionate devotion to his art with her devoted love for her husband is the great and unusual theme of the story. "The book is full of dramatic force. The author is an unusual thinker and observer, and has a rare gift for creative literature."—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

"If you are a boy, or if you are grown up and would like to be a boy again, it will do you good to read 'Johnnie.' "—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle. Adopted for use in the school libraries of Illinois, Kentucky, Kansas and Nebraska.

LEFEBVRE-LABOULAYE. Abdallah or the Four-Leaved Shamrock.

By Edouard René Lefebvre-Laboulaye. One of the Seymour Limited Editions. See Seymour.

By Caleb Lewis. Illustrated in color by George Kerr. 12mo, cloth, illuminated jacket in color and gold.....$1.25

These cosy evenings in Uncle Tan's fisherman's cabin, with the blazing drift-wood fire, the hot puffy biscuits and the golden honey, are cosy indeed. Here Jane and Peter listen to Uncle Tan tell of the amusing adventures of the Easily Lost Children. These stories are told with the simplicity and charm of real literature; and they contain much that is wise, much that is helpful and nothing that isn't cheering and encouraging.

LODGE. A Bit of Finesse.

By Harriet Newell Lodge. 12mo, cloth, gilt top.....$1.25

A story of life fifty years ago, with a pretty love motive, and an exciting social battle, in which the simple sweetness of a charming girl gets the better of the cunning devices of a married woman.

LONG. Seffy.

By John Luther Long, author of "Madame Butterfly," etc. Illustrated by C. D. Williams, and decorated by Earl Stetson Crawford. Ornamental cover, 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A draught of pure delight is this little comedy of country manners. It is like a summer day,—all sunshine and showers and rainbows,—smiles and tears and smiles again breaking through the tears. It is an idyl of the Pennsylvania Dutch, with two love motives, the love of a man for a maid and the love between father and son. Both are prettily managed, in the first half of the book, with charming humor,—in the second part, with seriousness, tenderness, dignity.

LONGFELLOW. The Courtship of Miles Standish.

By Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. Popular Edition. With forty-two full page illustrations, many of them in color, by Howard Chandler Christy. Decorations by Ralph Fletcher Seymour and Earl Stetson Crawford. Large octavo, cloth, in a box.....$2.00
Leather..... 4.00

A thoroughly artistic setting for this fine romantic poem. The New York Mail and Express calls Mr. Christy's Priscilla "the dearest, archest, quaintest little Puritan maid that man ever fell in love with," and John Alden "an ideal lover."

"The book is an ideal Christmas gift to present to either young man or maiden who appreciates a beautiful work in every detail of book-making."—New Haven Leader.

Evangeline.

Popular Edition. With forty-nine illustrations, many of them in color, by Howard Chandler Christy. Decorations by Earl Stetson Crawford. Uniform with The Courtship of Miles Standish. Large octavo, red cloth, in a box.....$2.00
Leather..... 4.00

The second Christy-Longfellow book is a surpassing achievement in beauty. Mr. Christy has more than risen to the occasion and given to Longfellow's masterpiece—the most familiar and the best beloved of all American love poems—a new richness and a new loveliness. It is the ideal gift-book, and this is shown by the fact that whoever buys it, selfishly hates to give it away.

Hiawatha.

Popular edition with more than fifty illustrations, many in full color, by Harrison Fisher. Decorations by Earl Stetson Crawford. Large octavo, cloth, in a box.....$2.00
Leather..... 4.00

No pains have been spared to make the Fisher edition of Hiawatha a most beautiful gift book. By fortunate chance it comes at the very climax of the Indian's popularity as a romantic figure. Mr. Fisher's Minnehaha is, of course, the loveliest Indian maiden ever conceived. That was to be expected. The glamour with which he surrounds Longfellow's famous hero is a revelation. All of the pictures are magnificently reproduced.

LYNDE. The Master of Appleby.

By Francis Lynde. Fully illustrated by T. de Thulstrup. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

"A novel tale concerning itself in part with the great struggle in the two Carolinas, but chiefly with the adventures therein of two gentlemen who loved one and the same lady," is the description of the sub-title. The story deals with that part of the Revolutionary struggle in which the Catawba and Cherokee Indians were involved.

"There is a continuous succession of thrilling situations," says the New York Sun. "A strong, masculine and persuasive story," is the comment of the Boston Transcript.

The Grafters.

Illustrated by Arthur I. Keller, 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A virile and vigorous novel of the West. Whatever your mood, "The Grafters" will chime in with it. If pessimistic you will swear that the brutal ugliness of official corruption here pictured has its undoubted counterpart in some of our states. If optimistic you will be pleased by the ultimate triumph of justice. If bored by the politics, and insensible to the winning charm of the love-story, you will feel the wind in your hair when you find yourself in the cab of a flying locomotive, dashing past danger signals with the sound of bullets in ears that are intensely expectant of an exploding boiler.

LYNDE.—Continued.—The Quickening.

Illustrated by E. M. Ashe. 12mo, cloth $1.50

An impressive novel and strong in its impressiveness, carefully wrought, intensely dramatic, first engaging the reader's attention and then compelling it. No nobler theme can be imagined, for it is the story of a man in the making. Out of the long, long thoughts of youth Tom Gordon emerges to meet the tests of religion, business and love. Aided only by his own great courage and his own great love, he fights through to faith and success and love returned. A big-hearted tale is "The Quickening," of a man who dealt with life at first hand.

Empire Builders.

Illustrated by Jay Hambidge. 12mo, cloth $1.50

A story of adventure, of swiftly moving events, of railway building in the West in the mountains and on the prairie, of plotting contractors in Denver, of battles of great minds in Chicago, of bulls and bears of the stocks in New York, and of love everywhere. It is crowded with events that quicken the pulse, that catch and hold the breath with suspense, anticipation and realization, for you live and move along from place to place with the intensely human characters in the story.

MACAULEY. Fantasma Land.

By Charles Raymond Macauley. With fifty-one illustrations by the author. 12mo, cloth $1.25

A juvenile for children of all ages, in which a small boy finds himself in the land of Upside-down where the branches of the trees lie on the ground and their roots rise high in the air, where the heads of the people move about independently of their bodies—a land where contradictions abound and nothing common happens. Dickey, the small boy, has many adventures in meeting the Fantasms, among whom are Little Nell and her grandfather, Don Quixote, the Jester, "who was once kidnapped from Fantasma Land and made to work for Sir Walter Scott," and many others.

McCUTCHEON. Congressman Pumphrey, The People's Friend.

Drawings and text by John T. McCutcheon. 12mo, cloth $1.25

A new book of cartoons by the most famous of American artists in this line, showing him in his best vein and representing his happiest achievement. The cartoons are accompanied by an elaborate commentary which forms in continuous narrative an intensely amusing political satire.

In Africa.

Illustrated with drawings by the author, and many photographs. Size 6½ x 9, cloth. $2.50

Joyously the famous cartoonist tells how he killed lions in the jungle-depths of the dark continent. Such a book as it is, packed with thrills and with a laugh after each thrill. Despite his fears to the contrary, Mr. McCutcheon discovered that Roosevelt had not exhausted the lion supply. The lions that faced his gun did not like him, he says, and were at no pains to conceal the fact. Hunting big game with Mr. McCutcheon in Africa proves the rarest sport the reader has known.

MACGRATH. The Puppet Crown.

By Harold MacGrath. Illustrated by R. Martine Reay. 12mo, cloth $1.50

The rose light of romance is here thrown over nineteenth century happenings. The scene is laid among the picturesque unrealities of a little Austrian border kingdom. The conversations are witty and charming, and the movement is brisk and crisp. "Harold MacGrath has attained the highest point achievable in recent fiction," says the Philadelphia North American; "We have the climax of romance and adventure in 'The Puppet Crown.'"

The Grey Cloak.

Illustrated by Thomas Mitchell Peirce. 12mo, cloth $1.50

There is something refreshingly Dumasesque in the opening chapter, where an aged nobleman is run through in his own house by the sword of a masked stranger who leaves behind him no clew but a torn grey cloak; and from there on the interest never flags. "There have been many excellent stories of love and intrigue, but no one of them all equals this in depth of fascination and subtile plot and counterplot."—New York American.

MACGRATH.—Continued.—The Man on the Box.

Illustrated by Harrison Fisher. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A gay romance of Washington to-day, carried off with admirable dash and spirit, and with just enough tragedy to give point to the comic touch. The hero masquerades as a coachman, takes service in his lady's livery, becomes involved in a diplomatic intrigue, and altogether has the liveliest kind of a time. The Albany Times-Union calls it "the most sparkling book of the season" and says that it "tells a most absorbing story in the wittiest, most delightful way."

Hearts and Masks.

With twelve full-page illustrations in photogravure by Harrison Fisher. Decorated by Ralph Fletcher Seymour. Ornamental cover, 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

Mr. MacGrath was in his gayest mood when he wrote this most exhilarating story, full of the zest of life. At every page the adventure turns an unexpected corner. The elements are fascinating: a hunt-club masquerade, three mysterious dominoes, each holding as a card of invitation the ten of hearts; the theft of a gorgeous necklace; a love affair begun and consummated within eight hours. Mr. Fisher's pretty girls and manly men make a fitting accompaniment to the merry tale of carnival entanglements.

Half a Rogue.

Illustrated by Harrison Fisher. With inlay cover picture by Mr. Fisher. 12mo, cloth, $1.50

Here are dexterity of plot, glancing play of witty talk, characters really human and humanly real, spirit and gladness, freshness and quick movement. Half a Rogue is as brisk as a horseback ride on a glorious morning. It is as varied as an April day. It is as charming as two most charming girls can make it. Love and honor and success and all the great things worth fighting for and living for are involved in Half a Rogue.

The Best Man.

Lavishly illustrated by Will Grefé. With inlay cover picture by Mr. Grefé. Uniform with Hearts and Masks. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

That love will find a way is the theme of this thoroughly MacGrathian and most attractive volume. Irate parents may storm and rage, clever rivals may scheme and plot, but the best man gets the girl, despite all obstacles. The sentiment is as gay as a rainbow. Mr. Grefé's art has made the book a thing of beauty within and without.

The Lure of the Mask.

Frontispiece in color by Harrison Fisher. Other illustrations by Karl Anderson. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A rich young New Yorker hears from his window a woman singing divinely out of a night of mist and fog. He does not see her, but he is destined to meet her later in mask and under most mysterious circumstances. Then the story shifts to Italy, with the shifting fortunes of an American comic opera company. You can imagine the fun! Even more than Mr. MacGrath's previous books, The Lure of the Mask possesses piquancy of situation and wit of dialogue. "One is obliged to read The Lure of the Mask," says the Boston Globe. "It is written for that purpose. There is no use trying to drop it, once you have begun it."

The Enchanted Hat.

Illustrated in color by Will Grefé. Uniform with The Best Man. 12mo, cloth, boxed $1.50

The Enchanted Hat is piquant, original, quaint in relation, fantastic in conception, unexpected in outcome. New York, under this magic touch, becomes as romantic as Bagdad. And the pictures are genuinely Grefeian. Never were prettier girls seen in the illustrations of a popular book. In the holiday season, and for that matter all the year round, everybody wants to give everybody else The Enchanted Hat.

The Goose Girl.

Illustrated by André Castaigne. Jacket picture in full color by Harrison Fisher. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

Charm is the word that fits this story. Charm of place—the fragrant, sunny vineyards of the Rhine country. Charm of plot—all our castles in the air come true. Charm of characterization—men and women whom we love to know, and know to love. Charm of style—simple, clear, poetic and humorous. Charm of incident, adventure and of outcome. MacGrath has never written so engaging a romance.

MACGRATH.—Continued.—A Splendid Hazard.

Illustrated in color by Howard Chandler Christy. 12mo, cloth..... $1.50

In this romance figures a great-grandson of Napoleon—real or most plausibly invented. It is redolent of the incomparable Corsican. The glory and glamour of Napoleonic legend are about it from the first charming moment when Fitzgerald, the young American journalist, comes on Laura Killigrew in Paris by Napoleon's tomb. The events of the story, as a present-day adventure tale mingling enterprise and love, are in themselves delightfully entertaining because marked by the usual luminous MacGrath charm, but beneath the gleam of the glories and triumphs of the First Empire they become fascinating.

MAJOR. When Knighthood Was in Flower.

By Charles Major. 12mo, cloth, illustrated.....$1.50

Julia Marlowe edition. Profusely illustrated with pictures from the play. 8vo, cloth, gilt top, in box.....$2.50

The success of the dramatization by Paul Kester followed upon the success of the novel. For months and months WHEN KNIGHTHOOD WAS IN FLOWER was one of the six best-selling books, and it holds the record for continuous mention in The Bookman's lists.

MARDEN. Choosing a Career.

By Orison Swett Marden, author of "Rising in the World," etc. 12mo, cloth, ...Postage 18c, net, $1.00

A comprehensive scope, a logical arrangement, a wealth of illustrations, trenchant sayings, admirable comment and a taking manner, are virtues of this book by the founder and editor of "Success." Part First deals with the theoretical aspects of the topic,—the duty of parents; the effect of surroundings, habit, physical fitness, nervous temperament, disposition, manner; the necessity of health, of definite purpose, of courage, energy and enthusiasm. Part Second contains a mass of valuable facts and opinions. The chief occupations are treated separately, and everywhere the author has called upon expert opinion to reinforce his own. Bankers, lawyers, railroad presidents, manufacturers, editors, printers, stenographers, artists, nurses, physicians—each a person of distinction in his own line—give the results of their experience. An invaluable guide to the boy or man, girl or woman, seeking direction on an all-important question.

By Frances Aymar Mathews. Illustrated by Harrison Fisher. With decorations by Virginia Keep. 12mo, cloth.....$1.25

ter, prostrate before her red slippers. "To make a comparison would be to rank 'My Lady Peggy' with 'Monsieur Beaucaire' in points of attraction, and to applaud as heartily as that delicate romance, this picture of the days 'when patches nestled o'er sweet lips at chocolate times.' "—New York Mail and Express.

MERTINS. The Storm Signal.

By Gustave Frederick Mertins. Illustrated by Arthur I. Keller 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

This exciting novel deals boldly, bravely, frankly with the negro problem. The author has his solution of the question—a novel solution which he presents concretely in a plot crowded with thrilling action and uncompromising realism. There is great strength in the story, great reserve, great range, and the force that comes from a straight hit from the shoulder. There is nothing to compare with it in literature for its comprehension and exhibition of the negro character, or for its sympathetic revelation of the Southerner at his best. The romance stands out with dramatic vividness like a tree against a flaming sunset. It is a moving tale, one to read with drawn breath and quickening pulses and a swelling heart.

MICHELSON. In the Bishop's Carriage.

By Miriam Michelson. Illustrated by Harrison Fisher. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

From the moment when, in another girl's chinchilla coat, she jumps into the unknown carriage, and, snuggling up to the solemn owner, calls him "Daddy"—from that moment until she makes her final bow, a happy wife and a triumphant actress, Nance Olden, the heroine of "In the Bishop's Carriage," holds your fancy captive and your heart in thrall. "The very best work of fiction that has come to us this season," says Professor Harry Thurston Peck, in the New York American.

MILLER. The Yoke.

By Elizabeth Miller. Ornamental cloth, 12mo.....$1.50

This great biblical novel is described by its sub-title as "A romance of the days when the Lord redeemed the children of Israel from the bondage of Egypt." Six hundred of the leading clergymen of the country have praised it as the finest achievement in religious fiction since "Ben-Hur." In the opinion of Rev. F. W. Gunsaulus, President of the Armour Institute of Technology, it "will take its place among our most important historical novels." Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman says: "I really have never read a greater novel; it is superb."

MILLER.—Continued. Saul of Tarsus.

A Tale of the Early Christians. Illustrated by André Castaigne. 12mo, cloth, ornamental cover.....$1.50

The same splendid imagination which reconstructed the Age of the Pharaohs and revivified the glory of Egypt in The Yoke here plays with lambent flame about the great Roman world in the years immediately succeeding the Crucifixion. The scenes are laid in Jerusalem, Alexandria, Rome and Damascus. The Apostle Paul, the Martyr Stephen, Herod Agrippa and the Emperors Tiberius and Caligula are among the mighty figures that move through the pages. Wonderful descriptions, heart-stirring incidents, deep emotion, high thought and a love story of the purest and noblest type mark this most remarkable religious romance.

The City of Delight.

A Love-Drama of the Siege and Fall of Jerusalem. Illustrated by F. X. Leyendecker. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

To make a love story of the first Christian century more vivid, more human and more intense than the romances of to-day—that is the feat Elizabeth Miller has accomplished in The City of Delight. A little group of most vital men and women stand out in splendid relief against the magnificent spectacle of Jerusalem's fall. Mobs and legionaries, fanatics and slaves, Roman, Greek and Jew, emperor and clown, leap into being in the flashes of a great imagination. "It has life and strength and is illumined with the colors of the glorious east," says the Chicago Tribune.

NICHOLSON.—Continued.—Zelda Dameron.
With portraits of the characters by John Cecil Clay. 12mo, cloth $1.50

In his new story Mr. Nicholson again holds the mirror up to human nature as found in the Middle West, and the reflection flashed back upon the reader is startlingly and attractively true. His heroine is a young girl full of life to her finger-tips,—a mixture of pride, wilfulness, courage and sweetness. She discovers that her father is a rascal,—and there is the point of departure of the book.

The House of a Thousand Candles.
Illustrated by Howard Chandler Christy. 12mo, cloth $1.50

A novel of romance and adventure flavored with mystery and alive with delightful surprises. Every reader with red blood in his veins forgets all the cares and demands of life in his overpowering eagerness to learn the solution, and when he learns it, the shock is so great that it takes him some time to recover his breath. The scene is laid by an Indiana lake, but the atmosphere is strangely of the Old World. The plot (which gallops all the way) involves astonishing wills, buried treasure, underground passage-ways, much fighting, much love-making, and the unexpected denouement already alluded to. Virile, direct, clear, rapid, fresh are the right adjectives for the book.

The strange infatuation of this young girl of charm and refinement for a man not possessing the usual qualities of a hero and the stranger transformation wrought in his common clay by her "genius for loving' are set forth with stunning and extraordinary vigor. All the fascination of the stage is in the atmosphere. Mr Osbourne has never before approached the impressive power of this book.

POWERS. My Own Story.
By Caleb Powers. With many illustrations from photographs. 12mo, cloth..... $1.50
The author of this remarkable book is the most pathetic figure in the political and criminal history of our times. Arrested in 1900 charged with the murder of Governor Goebel, of Kentucky, tried, retried, and tried again, convicted, sentenced to be hanged, and now in the Louisville jail awaiting his fourth trial, he here for the first time tells the story of his career. He tells it, too, with absolute candor and graphic detail. Outraged justice finds voice in these pages of personal vindication.

QUICK. Double Trouble.
By Herbert Quick. With sixteen illustrations by Orson Lowell. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50
The first comedy novel based on dual personality. In one "state of soul" the hero is a quiet, retired business man, a lover of books, proud of a Puritan conscience. In the other he is a breezy promoter of the Middle West, loud, sporty, rakish. When the two careers cross paths there follows a series of mirth-provoking situations in farcical confusion. "A weird conception—uproariously funny," comments the Chicago Evening Post. "Alert with the hustle and verve of the life that is not simple, but rather—exhilarating," says the Pittsburg Post.

The Broken Lance.
Illustrated by C. D. Williams. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50
Not since Robert Elsmere and John Ward, Preacher, has there appeared a religious novel so well qualified to attract attention and rouse a violent storm of contorversy. Through Emerson Courtright, brother to every man, the author teaches that Jesus meant to establish an earthly kingdom and that his ideas for such a kingdom, if followed to-day, would regenerate society. But the book is not a sermon. It is story from first to last, a big story, crowded with living men and women, instinct with action, illumined with humor, vivid, vigorous and tremendously effective.

QUICK.—Continued.—Aladdin & Co.

New Edition. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

"For sheer excitement and breathless interest it would be hard to match in very recent literature the wild ride through flood and storm of the special train."—New York Times Review. "The best of this book is not its picture of a Western boom town, good as that is, nor its really interesting story, but the portrait it presents of the chief promoter, a rare whimsical genius."—The Outlook.

Virginia of the Air Lanes.

Illustrated by William R. Leigh. 12mo, cloth, jacket in full color and gold embossed, ...$1.50

Herbert Quick has seized the romantic moment for the air-ship novel. He has done a big thing. He has realized to our imaginations the navigation of the airy spaces, with a matter-of-factness that makes it utterly plausible, and with an audacity that makes one dizzy in the new and awful altitudes. Wild? impossible? fantastic? Well, maybe. Who knows? But there's nothing impossible about the people who do these things. They are just as real and human as can be. Delicious humor permeates the whole book.

The Boys of the Old Glee Club.

Beautifully illustrated by Will Vawter. Tall 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

The true story of The Boys of the Old Glee Club has a sweet simplicity in itself; it is the kind of theme Riley loves. The brave jollity of the bald-headed veterans singing in later years the songs they learned in army days, the gradual thinning of the ranks, and the final touch of sadness when the few survivors hear through the phonograph the chorus ringing strong, catch the notes of those who have gone before, and cry like children at the sound—these memories are Riley's, as these men were his friends. No other could tell the tale, no other could make the telling of it a joy forever.

Old School Day Romances.

Illustrated and decorated very beautifully in color by Earl Stetson Crawford. 12mo, cloth, end papers, boxed $1.50
Leather 2.25

From this title it is easy to imagine the kind of poem that Riley has written. It's a Riley subject, if ever there was one, homely, humorous, touching. The familiar scenes; the old accustomed places; the little trials that seemed so great, the little joys that filled the heart completely, all these are here glorified with the golden light of Riley's wonderful genius.

RINEHART. The Circular Staircase.

By Mary Roberts Rinehart. Illustrated by Lester Ralph. 12mo, cloth $1.50

One continual ascent of alluring bewilderment, winding upward with a thrill at every step, a breathless pause at every landing. It is conceived so cunningly, fashioned with such fascination, that it leads the author at once to a place beside Conan Doyle and Anna Katharine Green. From the crime of first importance committed in the opening chapters the reader leaps up the staircase to learn "why," and a hundred times he thinks he knows the answer, and a hundred times he finds that he is wrong. "By far the best mystery story of recent years."—The Arena.

The Man in Lower Ten.

Illustrated by Howard Chandler Christy. 12mo, cloth $1.50

The Circular Staircase was the slashing big surprise of 1908. And now, from the same delightful source comes The Man in Lower Ten. Make way for him! He sweeps all before him. He goes at the rate of seventy miles an hour. He breaks all records for rapid and exciting travel in the fiction world. Mrs. Rinehart, first of novelists, has realized the possibilities of a Pullman for romance, for crime, for fascinating bewilderment, for ingenious and devious plot. And lighting up every situation with a gleam of her genius for fun, she offers you the most delightful of pastimes.

When a Man Marries.

Illustrated with more than 50 pictures, some in full color, by Harrison Fisher and Mayo Bunker. 12mo, cloth $1.50

"When a Man Marries is humor incarnate. Laughable situations swarm through the pages. It is as full of ludicrous complications as all of Hoyt's farce comedies rolled into one."—Pittsburg Post. "So jolly it would make a grouch smile like a Billiken."—Cleveland Leader. "Such a rollicking, rattling, rampant story has not hitherto been found in the English language."—Pittsburg Press. "The merriest, happiest, most entertaining story in a many a day."—Indianapolis News.

The Window at the White Cat.

Illustrated by Arthur I. Keller. 12mo, cloth $1.50

This story is compounded after the recipe that Mrs. Rinehart has made famous! Take one absorbing mystery, add an equal quantity of humor to lighten, sweeten to taste with love, stir the whole briskly until it is well mixed, and you have a dish fit to set before a king. In this case she has been especially generous and has provided two full-sized mysteries—for the disappearance of Miss Jane is just as baffling as that of the state treasurer—but as humor has also been provided in double measure, and the ingredient of romance is not scanted, the result is still happily proportionate.

RIVES. A Furnace of Earth.

By Hallie Erminie Rives. 12mo, cloth $1.25

An epigrammatic story of present-day life, abounding in crisp, bright humor and descriptions.

Hearts Courageous.

Illustrated by A. B. Wenzell. 12mo, cloth $1.50

The scene of Miss Rives' glowing romance is laid in the colony of Virginia during those momentous days of determination for independence and the formation of the new republic. No more attractive period can be chosen for the setting of a story; for to every American the names of Westover, Berkeley and Gunston Hall are bathed in perpetual romance. The heroine is a young American girl; the hero is a French marquis; and among the chief characters is Patrick Henry.

RIVES —Continued.—The Castaway.

Illustrated in color by Howard Chandler Christy. 12mo, cloth....Postage 12c, net $1.00

The Castaway takes its title from a saying of Lord Byron's: "Three great men ruined in one year—a king, a cad, and a castaway." The king was Napoleon; the cad was Beau Brummell; and the castaway—crowned with genius, illumined with fame, and shadowed in infamy—Lord Byron himself. "My life," said Byron in another place, "will furnish material for a pretty little romance, which shall be denominated the loves of Lord B." His jesting prophecy has been more than fulfilled by Miss Rives. Poet, lover, fighter, what a figure of a man, and what a hero of romance! "Dramatic scenes, thrilling incidents, strenuous events follow one another; pathos, revenge and pasison: happy scenes; moments of peace and pure happiness; a strong love; and through all these, under all these, is the poet, the man, George Gordon."—Grand Rapids Herald.

Tales From Dickens.

With many pictures by Reginald B. Birch. Large 12mo, cloth $1.50

Miss Rives has done for Dickens what Lamb did for Shakespeare—she has made him readable for children. Using all her wonderful skill as a story-teller, she has simplified his bulky novels, putting the plots in a clear, connected and definite form, and retaining the full measure of humor and pathos. The following tales are included: The Old Curiosity Shop, Oliver Twist, Barnaby Rudge, David Copperfield, Great Expectations, Nicholas Nickleby, Dombey and Son, Pickwick Papers, Little Dorrit, Martin Chuzzlewit, Our Mutual Friend, A Tale of Two Cities, Bleak House, Hard Times, The Mystery of Edwin Drood.

Satan Sanderson.

Beautifully illustrated in colors by A. B. Wenzell. Inlay cover picture. 12mo, cloth $1.50

From the heroic figures of the American Revolution and the romantic personage of Byron's day, Miss Rives has turned to the here and now. And in the present she finds for her immense and brilliant talent a tale as dramatic and enthralling as any of the storied past. The career of the Rev. Harry Sanderson, known as "Satan" in his college days, who sowed the wind to reap the whirlwind and won at last through strangest penance the bright prize of love, seizes the reader in the strait grip of its feverish interest. Miss Rives has outdone herself in the invention of a love story that rings with lyric feeling and touches every fiber of the heart with strength and beauty.

The Kingdom of Slender Swords.

Illustrated in color by A. B. Wenzell. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

In scope, in dramatic power, in the sweep of the passionate love story, and in that vividness of personal characterization which, together with brisk action, yields enthralling interest, it far surpasses the author's previous great successes. That any American woman should have written such a story is astounding, so complete is its knowledge of the brave and beauty-loving Japanese. No one can be beyond the range of its fascination. It is indeed a romance with a golden heart.

ROBINSON. Songs of the Trees.

By Mary Y. Robinson. Music by Josephine Robinson. Large quarto, illustrated in color.....$1.25

Each month in the year has a separate chapter and each is devoted to a separate tree. For example, January has the holly tree. The first full-page color picture is a silhouette of a little child, around which is a border of holly. The next page contains a descriptive verse. Then follows a page of music about the tree, and then the tree's biography, in which is told in very simple language something of its growth. There are three full-page pictures in color for each month, one of which shows in detail the blossom or fruit of the tree for the month.

A beautiful book, wholesome, hopeful, helpful.

SEAWELL. Francezka.

By Molly Elliot Seawell. Illustrated by Harrison Fisher. 12mo, cloth $1.50

There is no character in fiction more lovable and appealing than is Francezka. Miss Seawell has told a story of youth, splendor and tragedy with an art which links it with summer dreams, which drowns the somber in the picturesque, which makes pain and vice a stage wonder. "The period is the first half of that most fascinating, picturesque and epoch-making century, the eighteenth. The story has light and shadow and high spirits, tempered with the gay, mocking, debonair philosophy of the time."—Brooklyn Times.

Children of Destiny.

Illustrated by A. B. Wenzell. 12mo, cloth.....$1.50

A novel of old Virginia. In reading it one lives again in the patrician elegance of those mannerly times with all their freedom and all their limitations. In the midst of those quiet people—some rich in worldly goods, all rich in birth and station—is born a man with the unrest of genius. Miss Seawell's delineation of this man's character and her sprightly humor, playing on the foibles of the early nineteenth century aristocrats, show her as a brilliant writer and a deep thinker.

The Fortunes of Fifi.

Illustrated in color by T. de Thulstrup. 12mo, ornamental cloth.....$1.50
